A Wholesale Larceniat.

Thomas Dolan, a middle-aged laborer, who was employed for some time as washer at the stable of J. P. Ferguson, 134 Seventh street, is in jail on a charge of petty larceny, but will probably have three or four more to answer to. He was discharged a fortnight ago and has been drinking heavily. He stole some blankets from the stable, which he pawned for 50 cents at a cheap lodging-house. He also stole a bull-terrier pup, which he sold to a barkeeper at 7 Ninth street for $1, and he is accused by Pat Lyons of taking $2 15. All his victims were friends of the prisoner, and as a result he was locked in the lockup at station early in the afternoon by officer Ryan.

Acknowledged His Guilt.

Last evening Policeman George Brown arrested a man giving the name of William Lyons. The prisoner will be detained until he can give an explanation of his possession of four crowbars and a satchel. When the officer accosted Lyons the latter said that he had found the tools in the sandhills, but afterward he acknowledged that he had stolen them.

THE CHAMPIONS OF THE OLD CHURCH.

Father Ferguson Won Prominence Defending His Faith.

A LOGICAL PREACHER.

Sketch of the Brilliant Assistant of St. Patrick's Church.

A LARGELY SETTLED PARISH.

Foundation and Growth of One of the Largest Catholic Churches in the City.

Father Ferguson is not eloquent. Rather he is pointed and convincing in his style of pulpit oratory. His sermons in St. Patrick's Church, on Mission street, are noted more for their sound logic than their cadence of expression. Still his periods are well rounded.

Father Ferguson is an assistant at St. Patrick's. He has been there less than a year. Prior to coming to the City he had charge of a country parish within the ecclesiastical jurisdiction of Archbishop Riordan. Recognizing his exceptional value, the Archbishop, who constantly keeps a watch on the developing talent, transferred him to the metropolis. The young clergyman at once demonstrated his strength of purpose. He was one of the first to spring into the arena and defend his church in the issues that now foment the public mind. His series of lectures on the constitutional rights of the citizen, regardless of creed, color or condition, gave him wide distinction as a defender of his faith and conviction.

People at St. Patrick's parish take off their hats to Father Ferguson on the street and cheer him in public. They sing his praises about their firesides and hang his picture on their walls. They like his frank, open-handed, aggressive manner. And there are 25,000 or 30,000 in the parish. It is estimated that an average of 20,000 attend the masses at St. Patrick's on Sunday. It is a stronghold of Catholicity.

The present church was built thirty years ago. Preceding its erection the people worshiped in an unpretentious little frame church on the sand lot where the Palace Hotel now stands. The whole Market-street frontage, from Montgomery avenue to Third street, was once the property of the Catholic church. It was parceled up and sold by the late Archbishop Alemany. However, and the site on Mission street was purchased and the church built by the pastor, Father Grey, now in the evening of a well-spent life—a man who has done much to mold and direct the character of his people, and who now rests in the assurance of their love and respect.

When St. Patrick's Church was erected the neighborhood was sparsely settled. Now it is the center of active commercial life. It is the largest of the downtown churches. Its architectural design is after the Gothic. In its tall steeple hang the only church chimes in the City, and when they peal forth in musical rhythm the listener is entranced with the soft, swelling sounds. The quiet of the early Sabbath morn is broken by their metallic voices calling the people to worship, and throughout the day the clanging melodies grow space until the evening vespers are sung, and then the sweet music of the chimes floats over the swelling ocean, and dies away in the stillness of the night.

At the last mass at St. Patrick's on Sunday yesterday the Rev. Father Ferguson read the report of the work of St. Patrick's conference of the St. Vincent de Paul Society for the year. The report was as follows:

The objects of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul are to encourage and assist both temporarily and materially the deserving poor, particularly families having a permanent residence in the parish and who are compelled through sickness, accident or lack of employment to apply for relief.

The above report shows that a great deal of assistance is required of us by the large number of poor families residing within our parish, and the number increases from year to year. We not only have our own resident parishioners to assist, but are constantly appealed to by charitable Catholic institutions outside of our parish, and we have always helped every deserving family that has applied, and in the distribution of funds intrusted to our care it is only after a careful investigation at the home of the applicant that any relief is given, and in this respect we are deeply indebted to Mrs. Flint and her associates of the Associated Charities for valuable information given us on doubtful cases.

Now, to continue this charitable work, we must have your assistance. During the past year we have expended and otherwise disposed of our entire income, which amounts to only $32 50. Were it not for donations we could not have paid our bills for the year. Father Grey, particularly, was very kind. During the past year Father Grey has given us $150. Therefore, as Catholics, we make a special appeal to you to become a subscribing member and contribute from 25 cents a month up, according to your means. The knowledge that you are doing your share in the good work should amply reward you.

Accompanying the report was the following financial statement:

Father Ferguson preached a brief sermon on the "Feast of Jesus," which was the feast of the day. He drew a beautiful picture of the Savior's life, and illustrated how the name of Christ lived imperishable in the lives of men, in the history of the world. The names of other great men had come and gone, but Christ's name went on forever. Alexander, Cæsar and Napoleon were but a memory. They influenced the destiny of their time, but Christ influenced the history of all time.

FOR THEATER-GOERS.

What There Is on the Programme at the City Places of Amusement To-Night.

The California Theater will this evening offer to its patrons "In Old Kentucky." This piece will be carefully staged, and some of the features will be the lanterne and the Pickaninny band, trained especially for this play. Miss Laura Bert will appear in the character of Madge, the heroine, and be supported by a strong company.

"The Ensign" will be revived at the Baldwin Theater this evening by the Frawley company. It is an exceedingly patriotic piece that deals with love for the flag. It is a stronghold of Catholicity.

The present church was built thirty years ago. Preceding its erection the people worshiped in an unpretentious little frame church on the sand lot where the Palace Hotel now stands. The whole Market-street frontage, from Montgomery avenue to Third street, was once the property of the Catholic church. It was parceled up and sold by the late Archbishop Alemany. AGAINST MUDDY, ROUGH ROADS.

Coming Visit to the City of the Bureau of Highways.

ITS WELCOME OUTLINED.

Every Wheelman and Driver in the State Interested in Its Work.

COBBLES, BITUMEN, ASPHALT.

Arrangements for an Important Meeting February 13 and Later Demonstration.

Plans are being made for a meeting of delegates of all the organizations in the City interested in good roads, the object being to arouse a general interest in the subject prior to the visit of the State Bureau of Highways, which will probably occur late in February, and which will be observed as a big public demonstration for smoother and more modern pavements.

The highway improvement committee of the League of American Wheelmen has taken the initiative and has decided to call a preliminary meeting for February 13, to be held at the rooms of the Bay City Wheelmen, at 1 Golden Gate. In addition to the committee itself, there will be a representative of each of the cycling clubs in the City, a representative of the Drivers' Association, a representative of each of the boulevards and a representative of each of the improvement clubs.

The object of the meeting will be to create in the various parts of the City through the delegates in attendance a rousing and concerted public interest, to be demonstrated on the occasion of the initial meeting in San Francisco of the new State Bureau of Highways.

In order to facilitate the preliminary work and broaden its scope the highway improvement committee requests that every interested organization or club send the name of its secretary to C. Mihaelis, Mills building.

Section 4 of the act of March 27, 1895, creating the Bureau of Highways, says:

One or more members of the Bureau of Highways shall visit each county in the state at least once in each year, and shall hold therein a public meeting at which there shall be an open discussion of all matters relating to highways or highway improvement.

The visit to San Francisco will be of novel and unusual interest, because it will practically complete the tour of all the counties in the State and furnish the bureau an opportunity to discuss the general road problems in California.

Already many of the northern counties have been visited by Manson of Alameda, one of the three Commissioners, and Maud and Irvine have been over the bay counties and down to Santa Cruz.

Commencing to-morrow a meeting will be held in Uxiah, and soon thereafter Manson will visit the counties of Lake, Humboldt, Del Norte and Siskiyou. In the southern part of the State Maud and Irvine are now engaged in traveling through Los Angeles, Riverside, Orange, San Diego, San Bernardino, Tulare, Kern, Fresno, Kings and Modera Counties.

Henry F. Wyman, chairman of the highway improvement committee of the L. A. W., speaking yesterday for the respective mass-meeting when the Bureau of Highways shall visit this City, said:

"It seems generally that wheelmen must take the initiative in all the road improvements throughout the State. We want to hold a preliminary meeting to formulate and discuss plans for booming the big meeting. Of course, if we are to have the help of the bureau we must find out just what the sentiment is and what we can do to cooperate with the commission in obtaining better thoroughfares.

"When the bureau meets in San Francisco it will have completed a circuit of the State, and we want to derive the benefit of its suggestions and observations.

"The primary object of our committee is to educate the property-owners away from macadam and cobblestones and to create a public sentiment in favor of smooth, hard pavements that are not blown up in clouds of dust in summer and in winter covered with mud or rutted out and washed into the sewers.

"I agree Manson if it is so that California has the finest asphalt in the world and he said yes, and I asked him if it is being shipped East and he said yes. He told me that the asphalt pavement is equal to the bitumen pavement if properly laid, but that no one in this State understands how to lay it. And I learned from other sources that asphalt is not used because of the bitumen combine.

"To show the trend of sentiment among wheelmen in regard to the agitation for better highways I notice that Isaac Y. Foster, chief counsel of the L. A. W. of New York, has offered an amendment to the constitution of the League of American Wheelmen to drop the consideration of racing and to make road improvements the primary object of the league henceforth.

"One of the road propositions that would affect San Francisco is the completion of the San Francisco and San Mateo boulevard, to be built round by the way of the Alessnoune and Ingleside. Another is the continuation of the smooth pavement already laid for a long distance on Folsom street. When Folsom street is laid in bitumen as far down as Eighth, and $35,000 was appropriated to continue the work of improving that street, there will then be a continuous smooth pavement four miles long from the City Hall down Eighth street to Folsom, out Folsom to Twenty-sixth, then to Mission, and along Mission to Thirty-first."

MAIL DISTRIBUTORS' BALL

Annual Dance of the Postoffice Clerks at Eintracht Hall.

The fourth annual grand ball which the local branch of the Postoffice Clerks' Association gave at Eintracht Hall, 237 Twelfth street, Saturday night was a very enjoyable affair. The music was by the Letter-carriers' band of thirty-two pieces.

J. E. Maunix was the floor manager, assisted by E. J. Barton and a floor committee composed of J. A. Healy, J. J. Handley, R. Malomey, C. L. Bunnell and F. A. Conklin. The reception committee consisted of C. N. Brown, president of branch No. 30, C. Haswell, A. Springer, W. J. Simon, C. G. Gregg, J. McTamney and D. Supple. Following were the committees of arrangements: Chairman L. E. Perre, A. B. Imbrie, H. J. Cavenny, J. E. Ferry and E. J. Barton.

The other officers of the branch besides President Brown are: C. Haswell, first vice-president; E. Perre, second vice-president; A. Springer, recording secretary; J. A. McGeary, corresponding secretary, and D. Coyne, treasurer.

FORTY-THIRD ANNIVERSARY.

Young Men's Christian Association to Celebrate Next Sunday.

The regular Sunday afternoon lecture at the Young Men's Christian Association will be delivered yesterday by Rev. Amory Weber of Boston, a missioner of the Episcopal church. He took for his subject the question, "Is Christ Worth the Value of good associations."

Next Sunday will be celebrated the forty-third anniversary of the association. At 3 o'clock Bishop Nichols, A. M., head of the Methodist Episcopal church will delivver the annual anniversary address. The choice of music will be furnished by the Knickerbocker Quartet. The reports of the officers of the association for the year just done during the past year will be ready for distribution.

ONE OF THE POSTERS ADMIRED BY VISITORS TO THE ARTS AND CRAFTS EXHIBITION.

Escaped From an Asylum.

About a week ago John Lothrop escaped from the asylum for the insane at Stockton and made his way to this City. With little trouble he obtained a position as a dishwasher in a restaurant at 624 Mission street. Some one who knows Lothrop saw him at work and sent word to the authorities at the asylum. Last evening one of the guards from the asylum arrested the man and placed him in the Receiving Hospital, to be sent back to the asylum today.

DEATH OF OTTO SUTRO.

A Brother of the Mayor of San Francisco Dies in Baltimore.

HE WAS A NOTED PIANIST.

Next to the Youngest of Seven Brothers, All the Rest of Whom Are Living.

The following dispatch, announcing the death of a brother of Mayor Sutro, was received in this City early last evening:

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 19.—Otto Sutro, one of Baltimore's best-known business men and musical educators, died to-night from an affection of the bladder. He was born in Aix la Chappell, Rhenish Prussia, February 24, 1833. His mother Adama, daughter of Rabbi Aize H. Handy, late Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Mississippi.

One of Mr. Sutro's brothers is Mayor of San Francisco. Theodore Sutro of New York, the engineer who constructed the famous Sutro tunnel through the rocks of Nevada, is also a brother. Mr. Sutro's widow and her two daughters are in Germany.

Mayor Sutro said last evening that the news of his brother's death was not a great surprise. Otto had been very ill for some time, and during the past week or more had been lingering in an unconscious condition at the very threshold of death.

The deceased was the second, in point of age, of the seven Sutro brothers, all of whom, with this exception, are still living and in the enjoyment of sound health. There are also three sisters living, and in this family of ten children, though the youngest of them is 50 years of age, there had not been a death for thirty years prior to the decease of Otto Sutro. He was 62 years old, and a musician of great learning and skill. He was a pianist of considerable note, and also president of the Baltimore Oratorio Society. He was the largest music dealer south of Philadelphia, and a leader in all musical events and circles in Baltimore and vicinity. As a musical scholar and teacher he was widely known, and he had spent the best years of his life in the pursuit of his art.

In the early days he came to California and remained here until 1855. He leaves a widow and two daughters, all of whom are in Berlin, Germany, at present, with his brother.

"MAIDEN AT THE PRESS."

A Striking Poster Exhibited at the Guild of Arts and Crafts.

Some of the Many Wonderful Objects That Will Be Displayed To-Night.

Prominent among those who were instrumental in getting up the Guild of Arts and Crafts that will open an exhibition this week in the Parti-nation studio on Pine street are John A. Stanton, president; William D. Armes, secretary; Douglass Tilden, treasurer, and Clinton Day, Bruce Porter and Emile Pinda, directors.

One of the features of the exhibits is the posters. These are posters of every shade and description, and they represent the ideas of various nationalities. Some are unique in design, others are bizarre and all of them very attractive, that is, they catch the eye and cause the onlooker to gaze at them even though inclined to look at something else.

One of them is the production of A. T. Mathews, which is entitled "The Maiden at the Press," and portrays a young girl with her sleeves pushed back and her arms extended upon the rower of an old-fashioned press. She is evidently giving the last touch to the Instrument and her face expresses great interest and enthusiasm in her labor.

There is another that is worthy of special mention, and that is a French poster representing Sarah Bernhardt as Gismonda, which is decidedly Parisian in execution. The Spanish Girl and Yvette Guilbert have served as subjects for the poster artists to make up their fanciful designs.

There is to be seen a number of books, old and new, that form an interesting exhibit of works issued from ancient and modern press. There are some beautifully illuminated volumes from the library of St. Ignatius College, antique productions from the Sutro Library and some from the private collection of Leo Elcesser, but they are in strange contrast with those issued at this date.

The display of newspapers of days hundreds of years ago form a collection that will enlist the attention of all who take an interest in such matters. These are but a few of the exhibits that will be shown to those who will visit the headquarters of the guild.

THE BUTCHERS DANCED.

Their Annual Function Given at Eintracht Hall, Twelfth Street, Last Evening.

The Journeyman Butchers' Association gave its annual ball last night at Eintracht Hall on Twelfth street.

Notwithstanding the stormy weather the hall was filled with dancers, notwithstanding a hundred couples being on the floor at one time.

The occasion was made memorable to the officers by the presentation to President Fred Mueng of a heavy gold medal, the gift of Past President M. P. Van Dereer. On the front of the medal were crossed a miniature cleaver and a carving-knife, and on the back were engraved the names of the president and the past president and the date.

This association contains over 500 members in the bay cities, and 20 of that number are in the local association. Among the guests last evening were Sheriff Whelan, County Clerk Curry, Judge Conlan and Judge Campbell.

Prominent among the members were the committemen who had managed the details of the affair and to whose efforts in a large measure the success of the occasion was due.

On the committee of arrangements were: M. P. Van Dereer, Ben Dunn, Frederick Meyer, John T. Keller, George A. Schade. The reception committee consisted of H. W. Miller, E. H. Gladwin, William Dallug, Louis Hoenes, Frank Miller, Henry Schelly, Gustav Loeb, John T. Broderick, L. J. Fox acted as floor manager, and was assisted by R. C. Kelley, and by a floor committee of: James O'Leary, Charles Weisheimer, Leonard Weidler, Albert Eckhardt, Frank Kramer, William Schubach, L. G. Harrant, James G. Buchanan.

Club Officers Elected.

At a meeting of the Reliable Social and Political Club, held at California Hall, 620 Bush street, on Saturday evening, the following officers were installed for the ensuing six months: President, J. J. McGuire; vice-president, F. H. Griffin; recording secretary, D. Condara; financial secretary, W. H. Gaffney; treasurer, Chris Hilderbrandt; sergeant-at-arms, E. Emerson; executive committee—William Wiechman, W. T. Scholz, Frank Forester, William Norton, J. P. Goldy, Joseph Nelson, Lloyd Jones, Gallaway and Thomas H. Conley. Addresses were made by ex-Senator George H. Williams and Captain Blomkamp setting the success of the club.
