WAGES FOR THE UNEMPLOYED.

It is unfortunate that the question of wages has been made an issue in connection with work for the unemployed. The City's contribution of $25,000 for that purpose is being disbursed under the direction of the Park Commissioners, who are employing former service men to do certain work as common laborers in the Park, for which they have, by agreement with the men themselves, fixed a wage of $3 a day for a period of less than eight hours.

The purpose of the $3 wage is to permit of the largest number of men possible being employed for as long a time as possible. In other words, the Park Commissioners and the men themselves wanted to make the money last as long and go as far as it could be made to go.

It is claimed that the payment of $3 a day to these former service men is an entering wedge for a reduction of the wages of unskilled laborers in San Francisco from $5 to $3 per day and that, if permitted, the action of the authorities in the matter of work for the unemployed would be considered as a precedent for a general reduction of wages.

As a matter of fact there is no chance of any such thing resulting. If the men employed on this emergency work were working full time for $3 per day there might be some ground for declaring that wages were being reduced; but when the hours worked by these men are considered it will no doubt be found that they are receiving very close to the average wage for unskilled labor.

Work of this kind, under circumstances such as now exist, is emergency work. The city is confronted with a condition of unemployment which it is trying to meet, as it has in times past, by providing work in the Park for the unemployed.

No reasonable man can dispute the fact that it is better for the unemployed themselves to work on part time for approximately the standard wage than it would be for them to work full time for the standard wage, because on the part-time schedule more men can be employed and, as preference is being given to married men living in San Francisco, more kiddies can be fed and cared for than it would be possible to care for with less men working full time.

Perhaps pick and shovel labor is worth $5 a day; that, however, is not the question. The question at issue is providing work for the longest period for the most men with the money available. It is a dog-in-the-manger policy that would seek to force the payment of the full standard wage and thus prevent some men who might be employed from securing work and the wages that go with it.

With the men who are doing the work, or the great majority of them, satisfied with the arrangement under which they are working it ill becomes anyone to agitate for a change that will prevent some of them from securing a few days' work.

The very purpose of this work is to relieve want and prevent privation for men, women and kiddies, and while under ordinary circumstances there would be good grounds for objecting to a reduction of wages the present situation does not admit of such objections being received with good grace by the public whose money is being spent for the relief of the unemployed.

Beyond question the people are getting full value for their money; they can depend upon the Park authorities for that. It would be far better to leave the matter as it is and let the Park Commissioners do what the people expect them to do—furnish work for as many men as possible for as long a period as possible.

It will be remembered that when the Balboa boulevard was built, the South drive in Golden Gate Park constructed and Nineteenth avenue graded, it was done by the unemployed at less than the prevailing wage; and the money was raised by private subscription. There was some agitation made at that time against the payment of less than the standard wage, but the people realized that the work was emergency work and necessary to relieve a very serious condition and, therefore, the wage was continued as at first established; and the men were perfectly willing to work for what was offered in order that their families might be provided for.

Different rules govern in times of stress from what are observed in ordinary times. The city cannot appropriate more than a certain amount for this purpose and it is highly desirable that what money is available should be made to go as far as possible. And if more men can be given some relief under the wage schedule fixed for part-time service than under the prevailing wage for full-time service then the $3 wage for part-time should prevail.

It is not the purpose of San Francisco to be niggardly with these men, nor to use the conditions that make this emergency work necessary as a club to beat down the wages paid to those unskilled laborers now employed steadily by the city or by private employers. But work must be provided for the most men for the longest time and the method adopted seems to be the best for that purpose and should not be disturbed.
