POLICE JUDGES TALK TO JURY

Mogan, Cabaniss and Conlan Argue That They Are Not Paid to Fill City Treasury

CHARGE OF NEWBURGH

Claims That Byington Has Persecuted His Client, Who Is Accused of Murder

The entire session of the Grand Jury was consumed yesterday in hearing the testimony of Judges Mogan, Conlan and Cabaniss regarding the dismissals of cases and lack of fines.

At the conclusion of the session, which was after half past five o'clock, the foreman of the jury reported that they had not yet come to any conclusion and that the matter would have to go over until the next session.

Judge Mogan, who was the first Judge called upon, talked to the jury for more than an hour. He said he was not on the bench for the purpose of loading the city's treasury with wealth reaped by fines, but that he is expected to deal out justice.

"In many cases," said Judge Mogan, "the mere fact of undergoing arrest is sufficient punishment, and in such cases the defendants are dismissed. At least, such is the case in my court, and I have reason to believe that it is the same in all of the other police courts."

Judge Conlan and Judge Cabaniss made similar statements.

Attorney A. S. Newburgh was expected to appear before the Grand Jury for the purpose of having District Attorney Byington indicted for "prosecuting" instead of "prosecuting" his (Newburgh's) client, Frederick, who is charged with the murder of Police Officer Robinson, but he was not there. He sent a letter to the jury asking them to look into the matter. His request was granted.

BLADE IS ACQUITTED OF COUNTERFEITING

Jury Takes Pity on the Prisoner Because of His Tender Years and Lets Him Go.

Erick Blade owed his good fortune yesterday to two things. The first was that he was but 17 year old and seemed rather "new" at that; the second was that United States District Judge de Haven charged the jury that a counterfeit 25-cent piece with one side blank could not deceive anybody into thinking but a gambling slot machine.

Blade went to Truckee from Minnesota several months ago and obtained employment as a lumber man. On February 4 he was detected feeding slot machines with counterfeit 25-cent pieces, one side of which was blank. The particular machine he was working gave up good money or prizes. Secret service men found in his cabin several counterfeit nickels and two sided quarters, together with melting pot, ladle and a plaster of paris mold.

Blade told the jury yesterday that a man who has since disappeared advised him that it was not against the law to pass bad money into a slot machine.

The Judge's charge and the young miss's tender age and apparent frankness were the reasons for the verdict of acquittal.

Frank Shand Disappears.

John Harder of 1124 Kentucky street called at the Morgue yesterday and reported that his friend, Frank Shand, a driver in the Judge Iron Works, disappeared last Monday evening at 7 o'clock and has not been seen since. Shand was a United States soldier in the Philippines and returned from Manila two and a half years ago.

Wants Half the Fine.

William Meyer petitioned the Board of Supervisors yesterday to be awarded the sum of $41, being one-half of the fine paid by A. Hockstra, who was convicted of practicing medicine without a license. Hockstra was arrested on complaint of the Board of Medical Examiners, for which Meyer is a detective.

REJECTED SUITOR CUTS WOMAN'S NEW CARPETS

He Resents Her Interference by Committing Battery, for Which He Is Arrested, and Then He Celebrates His Release by Returning and Threatening to Take Her Life

Cornelius J. Murphy, arrested night before last for assaulting Mrs. Augusta Towle, celebrated his release on bail by returning to his victim's domicile and threatening her life. For this offense he was rearrested, and when arraigned on the original charge of battery yesterday morning before Judge Conlan that magistrate issued a warrant accusing him of making threats against life and ordered him into custody.

Mrs. Towle is buxom, fair and forty and manages a lodging-house at 229 Mason street. Murphy, who is a party politician, was smitten by her charms, but his endeavor to capture her affection was handicapped by the fact that she disapproved his habit of acquiring alcoholic hilarity. So she presented him with the figurative mitten, and he sought to drown the dejection born of rejection by imbibing fiery liquids. The more he drank the more firmly did he become convinced that the object of his infatuation had not treated him as he deserved. Then his adoration gradually turned to hatred, and it was with malice in his heart that he went to her home Thursday night and deliberately mutilated her new hallway carpets with his pocketknife and improved her interference by smiting her. The rest has been told.

Murphy was a deputy County Clerk during the Hasey administration, and since then has held various minor positions in the City Hall. He recently was attached to the municipal electricity department.

Six months for begging and six months for defrauding an innkeeper will be served by Mary Ellen Parrir, and Annie Meehan will be imprisoned half a year for the former offense. The women were arrested for violently accosting a Berkeley woman while she was walking along Mission street, Judge Mogan sentenced them.

For making April fools of several unsophisticated admirers of the so-called art study Mrs. Charles Mc-Carthy and C. C. McGregor will be tried before Judge Conlan next Wednesday on a charge of conspiring to obtain money by false pretenses. They were arrested on the 1st inst. by Patrolman Reade, who caught their fraudulent enterprise in full swing. Mrs. McGregor stood at the door of a notable house on the Barbary Coast, the policeman says, and shouted with loud voice, "Step inside and see the hoax' match, admission only 10 cents." The officer, who dearly loves a good fleshy exhibition, laid a dime to Mc-McGregor and entered a room in which sat Mrs. McCarthy, smiling fit to entrance.

"Where's your hoax' match?" inquired the officer, noting the absence of anything that can even remotely be construed as matches.

"Here it is," responded Mrs. McCarthy, and she held forth for the officer's inspection an ordinary matchbox and a match.

"What do you mean?" he gasped.

"Didn't you see—a box an' match?" she explained.

Then he raked her in, and picked up Mr. McGregor as an accomplice. The prisoners protested that they were only practicing a form of April joke, but the man of law was implacable, and thus they stand charged.

Among the effects found in the pockets of Wilhelm Brandt, arrested for making night hideous on Keamy street, was a long "knuckle-duster," and in fractured English the prisoner informed Judge Mogan that he had brought the weapon from Germany, where it is regarded as an indispensable feature of every gentleman's personal equipment. "In gentest Teuton, Herr Brandt declared, would think of going abroad without having a 'knuckle-duster' where he could conveniently grasp it for other defensive purposes.

But the prisoner's plea, much less the apologies of such a relic of barbarism is strictly prohibited in this country," he was informed. "and while you are in Rome you must live as a Roman. I hereby declare your 'knuckle-duster' forfeited and order you to appear to-morrow for sentence."

Police Sergeant McAuliffe and Patrolman Flynn asserted that they had never, jointly or individually, banished a younger scrapper than Edward Bernard, a machinists' helper at the Union Iron Works, when they arrested him on drunkenness and disorderly conduct at the Powers. He fought them stubbily and long, and—if the complainants are to be believed—displayed in ordinary police duo could have subdued him without resorting to the vigorous use of clubs. The defendant offered no defense, and Judge Cabaniss sentenced him to twenty days' imprisonment.

* * *

It was in the Natoma-street barroom presided over by Mrs. Tessie Seahory that Conrad F. Stoesel first met Mrs. Tillie Butterfield, and it was the testimony of the two women that induced Judge Cabaniss to remand Stoesel to the Superior Court to answer a charge of burglary, the specific accusation being that he stole various articles of masculine apparel from the apartment occupied by Mr. Seahory. The defendant had several drinks with Mrs. Seahory and Mrs. Butterfield before he rewarded their condescension by committing a felony, and it was as much in sorrow as in anger that they clinched the charge against him. He is held in $1000 bail.

May Macdonough wore a sky-blue tailor-made and a towering mass of spring millinery as she stood before the bench in Mogan's court and pleaded not guilty to the charge of vagrancy. She appeared to be about 25 years of age, and riotous living had not entirely obliterated the comeliness of countenance which had been hers in girlhood.

It was stated by the accusing policeman that the woman frequented a Howard-street saloon and behaved herself in a way that shocked even the hardened habitues of the place. There bit by bit the Judge obtained from her reluctant lips enough autobiography to justify him in pronouncing her guilty as charged and ordering her to appear for sentence to-day.

She married one Macdonough and lived with him until a handsomer man aliened her affections, and with him she dwelt until he died, when she resumed marital relations with Macdonough, who finally cast her off for good. That was her story in brief.

* * *

May Wilson, also accused of vagrancy, tearfully implored Judge Mogan to stay his hand until she could summon some "character" witnesses.

"I have many gentlemen friends," she said, "and I'm sure they would be only too pleased to come here and testify that I am not a vagrant."

"From what the complaining policeman has told me about you," was the jubilant response, "I'm afraid that your gentlemen friends are as much in need of 'character' testimony as you are. I'll sentence you to-morrow."

Another brief chapter of the romance of the middle-aged Lahrada Morales and 16-year-old Alfonso Flores are the principal characters was unfolded yesterday in Judge Mogan's court, and mightily was it relished by the back benches.

Lahrada is specifically accused of vagrancy, but behind that charge is the desire of Mrs. Morales, mother of Alfonso, to rescue her son from the defendant's influence. Alfonso was a dutiful lad, Mrs. Morales says, until he was seen and instantaneously loved by Lahrada, who thereupon enticed him to leave the maternal roof and reside with her. When his inamorata was arrested about a month ago Alfonso disappeared, and ever since then Policeman Mathewson has been trying to capture him. It was the policeman's weekly report of failure that brought up the case yesterday.

"He's in the city," said the detective, in chastened tone, "and I'm sure to get him sooner or later."

Lahrada's counsel stated that Alfonso had been seen dallying in the vicinity of Lahrada's boudoir, on Hinckley place, and that it is evident she is surprising him with idle's necessaries. One woman testified that she was awakened the other night by the tinkling of a guitar and the cooing of a Spanish love song, and that she peered through her casement and saw Alfonso serenading his charmer. All this was denied by Lahrada, who asserted that Alfonso was a mere defendant in court she has never seen nor heard from the elusive Alfonso.

"Return to the troubadour's trail and stick to it," said the Judge to the policeman.

Ever since James Bamford, baker, became a defendant in a divorce suit he has borne bitter feelings against his wife, and yesterday he was given thirty days' imprisonment by Judge Cabaniss for visiting upon himself and child effigies designed as the result of such offensive language that one of the workmen, Harry Harold, was provoked to eject him from the premises.

Drunkenness and failure to provide are the charges contained in Mrs. Bamford's petition for separation, and witnesses testified that they were well founded. Susan Jones said so, and Mary Rhett was sure of it.

Many Children Are Relieved.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, held yesterday, Secretary H. J. White reported that 233 cases of alleged cruelty had been investigated during March, that 114 children had been afforded relief and that nineteen adults had been prosecuted for abusing minors. Several children were taken from parents who neglected them and placed in charitable institutions or families.

The Satisfactory Way.

"The Pleasure is mine," said the engineer's fireman to the other defendant as cash on time to the second.

"From San Francisco have the pleasure has been mine," said the merchant to his wife, "to present you with this check for forty-five hundred dollars."

Issues License for New Bank.

The State Board of Bank Commissioners issued a license yesterday for the establishment of the First National Bank of Highland at Highland, of that name. The new institution, which will open its doors for business on April 18, is capitalized at $25,000. H. W. Johnstone has been elected president of the bank and Wakefield Phinney cashier.

TALK IN CAMP OF POLITICIANS

Surmise That Governor Pardee Will Soon Appoint a New Labor Commissioner

STATE SENATE CONTEST

Republicans of Second Congressional District Prepare to Regain Lost Ground

Governor Pardee is in the city attending the annual meeting of State Normal School Trustees. There is an impression in political circles that the Governor will soon appoint a Labor Commissioner to succeed F. V. Meyers, whose term expired April 16, 1903. The change in the Yosemite Valley Commission may be announced this month. There are several candidates for secretary of the board to succeed J. J. Lermen.

The counties of San Mateo and Santa Cruz comprise the Twenty-ninth Senatorial District. A State Senator to represent this district will be chosen next November, and well-posted politicians would not be surprised if Assemblyman R. W. Irwin of San Mateo would be nominated by the Republican convention and elected by the voters of the district. He has represented San Mateo County in the Assembly for three terms, and is quite familiar with legislative affairs. Santa Cruz has several aspirants for State Senatorial honors, but the question of locality may influence in the selection of a nominee.

Word comes from Santa Rosa that Judge A. G. Burnett will not allow his name to go before the Republican convention as a candidate for delegate from the Second Congressional District to the Republican National Convention. It is current gossip that W. P. Hammon of Butte and Joseph Steffens of Sacramento will go to the Chicago convention as representatives of this Congressional district.

The Second District is now represented in Congress by A. Demerell-Theodore Bell of Napa. His renomination by the Democrats is probable. The district is normally Republican, but was weakened the last time in the election two years ago through the apathy of Republicans and the intervention on behalf of the Democratic nominee of the Gage forces of that campaign. Frank Coombs, the Republican nominee, was threatened with defeat for refusing to get in line for Gage.

This year complete harmony exists in the Republican camp of the Second District, and all indications point to the triumph of the party in the election. Judge Barnett withdraws all claims on behalf of Santa Rosa in the contest for delegate to the national convention in order to clear the way for the nomination on the Republican ticket of Duncan E. McKinlay of Sonoma County for Congress.

REGISTRATION OF VOTERS IS LARGELY ON INCREASE

The office is open for registration from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. to 9:30 p. m., April 11, 12 and 13, until 12 p. m.

MRS. VIRGIE GRAVES LOWE GETS DECREE OF DIVORCE

Judge Kerrigan Severs Ties Uniting Her to Wealthy Klondiker—Property Rights Adjusted.

Virgie Graves, formerly an actress, secured a divorce from Richard R. Lowe, the wealthy Klondiker, in Judge Kerrigan's court yesterday. She proved that he was intemperate. The Lowes settled their dispute over their property out of court.

The suit for divorce brought by Percy E. Folsom against Isabella Folsom was dismissed.

A suit for divorce on the ground of neglect was filed by Marie Olmon against Antonio Olmon.

REGENTS WANT AN ABLE MAN

Sentiment in the Board That the New Secretary Should Possess Exceptional Ability

INCREASE OF SALARY

Measure May Be Advocated to Fix Compensation at Seven Thousand Dollars a Year

There will be a meeting of the regents of the university next Tuesday, and according to the calendar of unfinished business the subject of selecting a secretary of the board will come up for consideration. The applicants for the position are numerous, but the fact does not contain the name of any man who is known to possess the business ability and all-around experience in the management of large affairs which the secretary, in the judgment of many regents, ought to have. The indications are that the selection of McKowen's successor will be again postponed. There is gossip to the effect that the list of available has been narrowed down to three applicants and that one of these is very highly indorsed on account of his service as secretary of the State Board of Examiners.

Many of the regents hold to the opinion that the secretary of the board should be such a man as would be chosen for the presidency of an important bank. The cash in the several funds of the university exceeds $2,000,000, and real property of a value approximating ten million dollars belongs to the institution. Therefore the argument is advanced that a man of experience, special fitness and proved energy should be engaged. It is known that the salary of $250 a month will not suffice to secure the services of such a man, hence a proposition may be presented to put the compensation at $6000 or $7000 a year and to give the secretary ample assistance for the transaction of the purely clerical business of the office.

The attendance of regents at the next meeting of the board will probably be large. The impression was given to the interior regents at the last regular session that the board would proceed to the election of a secretary at the regular meeting in April.

Drunkin Not Identified.

George Drunkin, the boy who was arrested early on Monday morning by Policemen Ward, Otten and Caen on suspicion of being a footpad, was booked at the City Prison yesterday on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. He was observed following a belated citizen on Fulton street and when searched two loaded revolvers, a slungshot, a box of cartridges and a false mustache were found in his pockets. Two men were recently held up in the Western Addition and were taken by Detectives Dinan and Wren to the City Prison to have a look at Drunkin, but they could not identify him.

She will make her first appearance to-morrow night at Golden Gate Hall in a sketch entitled "The Chill House Girl." Miss Voerssanger is a talented young woman and her friends predict a bright future for her before the footlights.
