This is little Harry Offerholding the train of so gracious and so absolute a monarch. The sentines, Arthur McDonald, and his two pages, Howard and Edward Hurlbut, lead the way to the throne. The maids of honor are robed all in white silk ornamented with red roses. No Queen of ancient times was ever attended by maids so beautiful. Now the Queen has reached the canopy, My Lord Gilchrist hands her to the throne with all the courtliness that even Queen Elizabeth could exact. Another instant and two maids of honor have placed the crown upon Queen Lillian—and San Mateo County has its first monarch. Now, James B. Again the orchestra plays the grand march. The garlands, which marked off the royal promenade are laid aside and the dance begins. It is the grandest fete that San Mateo County has ever seen, the most pleasing spectacle that any one well could find. The coronation ceremonies are over now. They were a success from first to last. The coronation ball is still in progress. The spacious hall is crowded with dancers, and as many spectators as the galleries will hold are watching the beautiful moving color picture below with the keenest in terest. More than 600 people are in the hall, and there are still others who would get in if there was room.

It is the elite orchestra of Redwood City that is now keeping time in soft strains to the twinkling feet, and its members are: George Long, leader and first violin; Harry Jamieson, clarionette; Will Jamieson, trap drums; Lottie Christ, second violin; Will Lipp, piano; Gus Staller, slide trombone; Marie Heiner, second violin; Carl Plump, bass violin; May Cook, first violin; Charles Dohrmanstein, piccolo; Henry Petzold, cornet.

"LOAD FOR BEAR,"

A National Petition Signed by 10,000 Californians.

PLEDGE FOR CANDIDATES

They Will Be Required to Support a Constitutional Amendment.

FARMERS NOT IN OPPOSITION.

Joseph Leggett and James S. Reynolds Speak on Single Tax Issues in California.

Now that the theory of the single tax has become an issue of importance in local, State and National politics through the earnest and long-continued labor of such men as Henry George and Congressman James G. Maguire, the National Single Tax League has been circulating in every State in the Union a petition praying that the several Legislatures will enact such measures as will result in the collection of all public revenues from the value of land without regard to improvements on it and from no other source

The petition is issued by the National committee of the Single Tax League and reads as follows:

To the Legislature: We, the undersigned, hereby petition for the enactment of such measures as may result in the collection of all public revenues—State, county, township and municipal—from the value of land, irrespective of improvements in or on it, and for the abolition of all other taxes now levted for this purpose. purpose. Name . . . Residenc

On the reverse side of the petition is the following argumentative language in regard to the utility and necessity of the single tax: THE SINGLE TAX.

The single tax means the abolition of all taxes on industry or on its products and the taking for public purposes, by the taxation of land values irrespective of improvements, of that fund arising from the general growth and development which constitutes the natural, just and sufficient source of public revenues.

and development which constitutes the natural, just and sufficient source of public revenues.

To tax labor or its products is to discourage industry and decrease the general wealth.

To tax land values is to discourage the greatest of monopolics which prevent industry and lessen the general wealth.

It will render it impossible for any one to exact for his private benefit a toll from others for the use of those bountles of nature to which all have the equal right of use, and compel every one holding valuable natural opportunities either to utilize them by the employment of labor or permit others to do so.

It will thus open opportunities of work for all and will secure to each the full reward of his work. As a result involuntary poverty will cease; the greed, intemperance and vice that spring from poverty, or the dread of poverty, will disappear, and a reasonable equality of condition, born of the equality of access to natural opportunities, will take the place of an increasingly monstrous inequality.

The circulation of the petition for Cali-

The circulation of the petition for California has been in charge of Attorney James S. Reynolds. When seen yesterday at his offices, 405 Montgomery street, Attorney Reynolds stated the interest manifested by Californians generally relative to the single tax doctrine had exceeded his greatest expectation.

est expectations. He said:
"The petition has been circulated in every county in the State, though in some more industriously than in others. San Francisco leads, with over 2000 signatures. Tulare comes next, with over 1000. Others, like Alameda, Fresno, Kern, Kings, Los Angeles, Sacramento, Stanislaus, Sonoma, Marin and Plumas, follow with from 200 to 400 each. The sum total is nearly 10,000 signatures. "In some localities a majority of the voting population have signed. Not all of these can be counted as active single-taxers, yet they all knew what they signed

"It is our purpose to circulate this petition more actively than ever before until the Legislature meets. It is a mistake to suppose that the farmers of California are either indifferent or generally opposed to the doctrine of the single tax. This is shown by the large number of signatures in several of the valley counties. W. H. Alford, Esq., of Visalia, who was a member of the Assembly of 1893, and at that time strenously opposed to the submission of a single-tax constitutional amendment, has since become a tional amendment, has since become a convert to the doctrine, and told me over a year ago that they can carry Tulsre County the first time they get a chance to vote on it.

"Plumas County is also regarded as per-

"Plumas Councy is also regarded as perfectly safe, owing to the work of James E. Mills and others.
"Circulating this petition is not all the single-taxers are doing now by any means—they are 'loading for bear.' A demand begins to come in from those who have signed the foregoing petition for some-thing more definite. They propose to re-quire a pledge from legislative candidates to submit a constitutional amendment that will open the way to single-tax legis-

"In compliance with this request, the following pledge has been prepared and will immediately be put into circulation: I hereby promise that I will vote only for such candidates for the Senate and Assembly as are piedged in writing to submit a constitutional amendment which will open the way to single-tax legislation.

"This pledge will be vigorously circulated from now on up to the time of the election. Single-taxers are beginning to think that they have been doing educational and propaganda work long enough to look for practical results. This pledge will put Legislative candidates to the test. In very many districts in the State they hold the balance of power, and in this matter they absolutely know no politics except such as make for or against the amendment.

"All we need in this State to make a beginning in adopting the single tax is to get the constitutional provision requiring everything to be taxed to be amended so that the Legislature will have jurisdiction of the subject. Or, if we had local option in taxation, we know for a certainty that we could carry several counties immediately for the abilition of all taxes.

RARE FLOWERS ON SHOW

Exhibition of Beauties Will Open in the Palace Hotel To-Day.

Will Be To'd by Ladies as They View the Blossoms in the Maple Hall.

In the annex of the Maple room in the Palace Hotel there were a dozen vases of old-fashioned roses yesterday, some yellow, one cluster pink and still others of the pale "tea" variety. And they had come from Monterey to bloom beside the pampered beauties of the flower show. A trifle quaint and plebian they looked there amid rare palms, waiting to be classed, and though fragrant as roses are, yet their one charm in the connoisseur's critical eye was a pretty historical incident.

The roses were dried by the journey and perhaps a little worn from long years in the adobe soil.

They were reminiscent of a romantic happening long ago at Monterey. As the story was told by a lady in the Maple room yesterday it proved to be one of the most interesting things said about the show. They came from an old lady at Monterey. When a beautiful girl she met General Sherman, and they were lovers for a time by the blue bay. One day while the general was in the garden with his fiancee-for they had pledged their trothhe received a summons to go East. The general promised he would return and make her his bride, and they planted a rosebush together where they stood.

General Sherman went away, but never came back to Monterey. His love was left with the roses that have bloomed and grown old and are now interesting for their

"She is selling the roses now, partly for a living," was the careless remark of a lady engaged in arranging the flowers.

The show promises to be a triumph of floriculture, and apart from these blossoms will attract attention from lovers of flowers. It is the thirteenth flower show in San Francisco held by the state Floral Society. It is the thirteenth flower show in San Francisco, held by the state Floral Society, that was organized seven years ago. While the season was not favorable to the possibilities of a fine display of blossoms extra efforts have been made by exhibitors to secure some interesting specimens, and for that reason it is believed the show will be even better than it would have been under different circumstances.

sweet little girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Schnider of 282 Crosby street, East Portland, Or. As you see her in this picture you see her in the flesh. Her cheeks are plump, her eves bright, and there is color in her cheeks. There is not a mark, a blot or blemish to spoil the beautiful contour of the face. The reason is given that she has been using Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. Margarette sends her love to California, and tells of her delight with Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla.

Margarette is winsome, bright, and is easily the prettiest Margarette in the country. I spoke to her father. His place of business is at 33 Fourth street, Portland. He came out of his office especially to tell me of the great good Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla had done for the family. "It is," said he, "the family medicine now, and we propose always to keep this remedy in the house." He advised me to visit many other houses in Portland and I would learn of wonderful things that had been done by Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. He said he knew of a case of scrofula that was completely cured by this great blood medicine. He also informed me of a lady who had been using the Sarsaparilla for two of the subject. Or, if we had local option in taxation, we know for a certainty that we could carry several counties immediately for the abolition of all taxes on personal property, and San Francisco is one of them. This shows how important we regard the question of the constitutional amendment proposed."

Attorney Joseph Leggett, who is the California member of the National Committee of the Single-tax League, said:

"The single-tax is rapidly passing out of the stage of mere propaganda and entering the field of practical politics. It is in active political discussion to-day in the States of Delaware, New York, Massard the states of Delaware, New York, Massard it is destined soon to become the leading issue in every State of this Union.

"That the people even in California are ready for the issue is evident from the fact that in little over a year nearly 10,000 woters here signed the National single-tax petition, and these sisnatures have been obtained solely through the voluntary and the service of the stage of mere propaganda and entering the field of practical politics.
