CLIFF HOUSES--PAST AND PRESE

THE ORIGINAL CLIFF HOUSE BUILT IN 1858 IS SHOWN IN THE UPPER PICTURE. BELOW IS THE NEW CLIFF HOUSE. THE RESEMBLANCE, BOTH AS TO SHAPE OF BUILDING AND LOCATION ON THE ROCKS, IS STRIKING. ON THE RIGHT IS A PICTURE OF THE SECOND CLIFF HOUSE WHICH BURNED IN 1907.

Francisco shortly before the big fire was discovered an old wet plate the foriginal Cliff House—the Cliff House that knew Fair, Mackay, Ralston and became famous the world over This negative, so far as known, was the only one in existence from which a picture of the famous old ocean resort could be taken, and it has since been destroyed, with but two photographs printed from it. A reproduction of this photograph is given on this page.

Addition is Built

Some time after the building was recreated an addition was made on the front of the building in the shape of a long covered porch, which served as an outdoor restaurant. Whether or not the designers of the present Cliff House had the original one in mind when they drew their plans is not related, but that it has a striking resemblance to it, in so tar as general outline and location on the Francisco shortly before the big fire

The original Cliff House was built in 1858, and it became a famous resert in those bold days of gold and until the night when its rearing sides drove the seals in amazement from the rocks before it. Bret Harte and Mark Twaln knew its halls, and the old became a kings gave their gold free hing there. When ran and glasses clinked and laughter floated across to the seals above the roar of the surf.
