PACIFIC CRUISERS STEAM PROUDLY IN

Two Squadrons and Flotilla of Small Craft Will Greet Battleships This Western Armada Measured Over All is Nearly One Mile Long

The Atlantic fleet has had the stage and all the limelight which it rendered the Pacific and the climax of the operation will come tomorrow when it enters the Golden Gate through lines of crowded excursion boats and between humbly covered hills. Until that time there would be a stage built on the Pacific fleet taken advantage of the name to recruit San Francisco but the Atlantic fleet has had the Pacific that makes something of a spectacle themselves. These were the first of the fleet to arrive in the Golden Gate within view yesterday afternoon witnessed a sight that has never been witnessed before. The Pacific fleet would have attracted thousands of people had it not been for the fact that the Pacific fleet was not in the Golden Gate until yesterday afternoon.

Picture shows Pacific cruisers lying at anchor off Angel Island awaiting coming of battleships. Vessels in squadron now at rest come more than three miles of harbor space as they swing to the tides. Front this resting place these speedy fighters will steam out to meet their herein consorts in big naval parade.

RAILROADS PRESSING ALL CARS INTO USE

Both Southern Pacific and the Santa Fe Prepare for Enormous Crowds

It is simply a matter of equipment, says J. J. Stinson, assistant passenger traffic manager of the Santa Fe yesterday. "All depends on the number of cars we can press into service to handle the enormous crowds of people that will pour into the city on Wednesday. We intend to put our ferry load, ocean waves into the excursion business, but I have put it on the regular run and it, with the Santa Fe, will be able to take care of the business."

Greatest Armada of Battleships Ever Assembled Will Anchor in Bay

Next Wednesday, when the fleet arrives, ponder these facts: The greatest fleet of armor clad ships in the world's history, 46 vessels in all, will drop anchor in San Francisco bay. Their combined crews will aggregate 20,000 sailors, the greatest number of bluejackets ever assembled under a rear admiral's flag.

CITY OFFICES CLOSE WEDNESDAY

The offices of the auditor, treasurer, sheriff and police department will be closed Wednesday at noon and not reopened until noon Thursday.

Shortly before 2 o'clock the first and second divisions of the fleet arrived from the Pacific fleet arrived from Puget sound and went to the Golden Gate. California City, where they were joined by the Pacific fleet, before 4 o'clock. Where they will wait until the battleships appear in the harbor tomorrow afternoon.

The ships that arrived were Admiral Dorr's flagship West Virginia, the Pennsylvania, Colorado and Maryland, Admiral Robber's flagship Tennessee, and the Washington, South Dakota, Oregon, Texas, Florida, and the California. They were joined by the first division of the fleet, the Oregon, Texas, Florida, and the California.

The South Dakota by one and of the line and the West Virginia as the other. From the South Dakota's bow the ship was passed by the Oregon, Texas, Florida, and the California. The West Virginia was the last of the line and the West Virginia as the other.

Letting go the anchor on Puget sound, by the way, is quite an undertaking. An ideal anchorage is in eight fathoms of water. When the ships would be obliged to anchor in eight fathoms of water. When the ships would be obliged to anchor in eight fathoms of water.
