RECEPTIONS TO GERSTER.

The frequency with which the annual hegira for the country is being discussed among the members of society at the present time renders any allusion to so premature a subject perfectly admissible in these columns. Although several weeks must necessarily elapse before our watering places and interior resorts will commence to assume any semblance to vitality, many feminine minds are already battling with the much vexed question, in what manner can the Summer months be best enjoyed? Foremost among the seaside resorts may be mentioned Santa Cruz, with its superior facilities for surf-bathing, its beautiful drives, and fashionably thronged hotels, where delightful hops are weekly held, all of which cannot fail to attract the most exacting pleasure seeker. Then comes the historical Monterey, where the visitor is afforded an opportunity to become acquainted by personal observation with many interesting incients connected with the early history of our State. The stately Del Monte, which experienced tourists state is a never ending source of wender and delight, also contributes much towards the springs and camping resorts, possessing good, and and indifferent attractions, all receive their nota of patronage from that portion of our community which is privileged to flee for a time from the bustle and whirl of a great metroa time from the bustle and whirl of a great metro-polis. There are a few persons, however, who pre-fer to spend the summer months alongside "their own vine and fig tree," instead of submitting to the manifold annoyances and doubtful comforts which usually attend a prolonged sojourn in the country. When these objections to rural districts are taken into consideration, it certainly does appear surprising that so large a portion of society will unhesitatingly sacrifice the pleasures of home in order to obey the mandates of that imperious, but fickle Goddess, the Queen of Fashion. So-cial circles during the past seven days have been marked by a greater degree of dullness than that which characterized the preeding week the fash which characterized the preceding week, the fash-ionable element without exception, having entered into the operatic season with an abandon never be-fore witnessed in this city. Below will be found a record of the principal events.

The groom is one of Oakland's most promising attorneys and holds the office of Conrt Commissioner for Alameda county. The attendance at the wedding was confined to the intimate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Whitney left for Monterey. Recent Pestivities,

The residences on Nob Hill have of late been singularly destitute of festivity. When one considers the vastness of the opportunities offered for brilliant social entertainments in these palatial mansions, it seems a pity that the occupants should be so chary about throwing open their doors to the social world. The Crocker mansion on California street is a trifle more active in this respect than the neighboring palaces of fashion, as on Friday afternoon last it was, for the second time this year, the scene of a pleasant entertainment, the occasion being a lunch party given by Mrs. Charles Grocker in honor of Mrs. John H. Carroll of Sacramento. It is not necessary to elaborate upon the elegance of the service, or the beauty of the various appointments. Suffice it to say that everything connected with the affair was in perfect keeping with the boundless wealth and well-known liberality of the hostess. In the centre of the table was placed a large bed of choice exotics, oblong in shape, from which emanated trailings of cut flowers and smillax. An elegant corsage bouquet, composed of one class of flowers, was given each of the guests, who numbered fourteen. They were Mrs. John H. Carroll of Sacramento, Mrs. Charles McCreary of Sacramento, Mrs. A. N. Towne, Mrs. Frank McCoppin, Mrs. Judge Sanderson, Mrs. A. E. Head, Mrs. Carolan, Mrs. Easton, Mrs. Lansing, Mrs. Colonel Samuel D. Mayer, Mrs. Henry Wetherbee,

The palmiest days of the old Western Addition Literary and Social Club, which quietly passed out of existence about two years ago, were called vividly to mind on Wednesday evening last, when the new organization incorporated under the title of the Western Addition Club, gave their second monthly entertainment and dance at Saratoga Hall. This Society possesses all the elements of success. Its members are energetic to an extent which borders on enthusiasm, and their social standing is, without exception, beyond dispute. The audience was large and fashionable. The entertainment opened with an overture by the orchestra, after which a cornet duet, introducing the selections "Misere II Trovatore," and "Giroffe-Giroffa," was admirably rendered by Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Fisher. Wm. H. Keith, Jr., who has a good tenor voice, next sang the selections, "La THE WESTERN ADDITION OLUB. Mrs. G. W. Fisher. Wm. H. Keith, Jr., who has a good tenor voice, next sang the selections, "La Stella Confidante" and "On the Danube," to a violin accompaniment by Thomas J. Duffy. Miss Annie Day followed with the recitation, "Archie Dean." Being encored, the lady recited in very clever style, the hackneyed but ever popular piece, "The Baldheaded Passenger," representing a scene on a railway car. Miss Sallie Rightmire whose cultivated voice is ever hailed with delight, came next on the programme, and sang "A Summer Shower." To an enthusiastic recall the lady responded with "Do You Really Think He Did?" Hon. Robert H. Taylor, who was billed for mer Shower." To an enthusiastic recall the lady responded with "Do You Really Think He Did?" Hon. Robert H. Taylor, who was billed for "Othello's Address to the Senate," was unavoidably absent. At a moment's notice Frank Van Vranken accepted an invitation to appear in his stead, and recited "Schneider's Ride," followed by "Shoo Fly," in a manner which merited the tumultuous applause which he received. Miss Susie Sroufe then sang "Dream Faces" and "Margery Daw." A banjo quartette, the concluding number rendered by Thomas H. Tennent, E. H. Folsom, William West and Mr. Theddy, was undoubtedly the hit of the evening. The participants were all costumed in imitation of the Spanish Students, and if the make-up was not a faithful representation of the dusky señors, the music furnished was fully equal to that produced by the popular Spanish gentlemen. As an encore the quartette gave an imitation of church chimes, which was well received, the soloist being William West. At this juncture the President, G. G. Burnett, came forward and extended a cordial invitation to those present to remain and participate in a programme of ten dances, which was not completed until after midnight. Charles Stallmann, of the Executive Committee, who was appointed floor manager, faithfully discharged his duties. Among grande of the dances, which was not completed until after midnight. PACIFIC OLUB BANQUET.

During the many years that the Pacific Club occupied the rooms on the corner of Bush and Montgomery streets no facilities were offered them for assembling in a body around the festive board, as their quarters were entirely inadequate in size. Since their removal one year ago to the commodious apartments corner of Post and Dupont streets, the advisability of holding a large banquet has frequently been discussed among the members. As the Club is approaching the 34th year of its existence the officers decided to commemorate the event by a dinner, which took place Saturday evening in the rooms occupied by them. The guests numbered eighty-four, who sat down to table at 7 o'clock. The elegant mirror in the large dining hall was profusely decorated with smilax dotted with camellias. Opposite this point was arranged upon the wall an elaborate frame worked in smilax and camellias, beneath which hung a beautiful floral star. Twelve baskets, freighted with choice flowers, adorned different sections of the table. A dainty bouttoniere was placed at the plate of each guest. There were no set speeches or general teasts, the order of the evening being a general flowers, adorned different sections of the table. A dainty bouttoniere was placed at the plate of each guest. There were no set speeches or formal toasts, the order of the evening being a general flow of conversation in which all participated. Ballenberg's complete orchestra, which was stationed in the hallway, discoursed the latest popular airs. At 10:30 o'clock the gentlemen arose from the table and repaired to the drawing-rooms, on the second floor, where the remainder of the evening was pleasantly passed in card-playing, story-telling, music, etc. Several of the guests excused themselves at an early hour in order to attend the opera, and returned to the club-rooms at the completion of the performance. The following officers of the club for 1883-84 were present: President James T. Boyd, Vice-President Russell J. Wilson, Secretary Charles J. Swift, Treasurer John McKee; Board of Directors, James T. Boyd, Charles F. Crocker, John McKee, Eugene L. Sullivan, Even J. Coleman, B. Howard Coit, William Mayo Newhall, Charles J. Swift and Russell J. Wilson. Among the remaining guests were Fred. C. tertainment Wednesday evening at their new rink, corner of Mission and Twentieth streets. The asphaltum floor which has recently been laid was in excellent condition, thus enabling the numerous skaters to pursue their favorite pastime with great enjoyment. A quintette of Italian musicians furnished orchestral selections, which enlivened the proceedings to a considerable extent. The only objection to the affair was the neglect on the part of the members to provide a heating apparatus for warming the building, which is decidedly barnlike in appearance and replete with draughts. Those who enacted the role of spectators shivered and shook with the cold, as though they were witnessing genuine skating upon some frozen body of water. Seymour R. Church, the manager of the affair, gained considerable distinction by the agility with which he steered the faint-hearted beginners across the slippery floor. Among those present were: Louis F. M. Monteagle, Miss Mary Willis, Fred Johnson, Miss Othella Mau, George Klink, John McKee, Charles Leonard, R. B. Woodward, Ferd. C. Peterson, Mountford Wilson, Thomas F. Gegan, Samuel Ralston, Ric Pinto, Adolph Kahn, Chauncey St. John, Seymour C. Church, Seymour Davidson of New York, Charles Wines, Mrs. Al. Hayman, Miss Florence Godley, Robert Woods, Thos. Social Doings of MME. Gerster.

The tribute which is now being paid by the residents of San Francisco to Mme. Gerster as a great lyric artist, is simply the outspoken sentiment of a cultured community regarding undisputed genius. The social recognition which has been extended the favorite prima donna is not so much a testimonial to talent as it is a desire on the the part of the public to become personally acquainted with one who accepts homage and adulation with the frankness and simplicity of a child. The first to extend social courtesies to Mme. Gerster was the Russian Consul-General A. E. Olarovsky, who on Sunday the 16th inst., extended an invitation to herself and party to visit his home at Menlo Park. The Madam's special car "Traviata" which left this city at 10:40 o'clock, contained the following guests: Mme. Gerster and her husband, Dr. Gardini, Miss Flora Low, Miss Mills, Miss Hull, Senor Arditi, leader of the orchestra, Senor Franchi, Secretary to Mme. Patti, Colonel Mapleson, Henry Heyman and Count Zacharoff. Upon arriving at the depot carriages awaited the guests to convey them to the residence of C. Felton, which was placed at the disposal of the party. The Madame, accompanied by Henry Heyman, was driven by the Russian Consul. The company par-SOCIAL DOINGS OF MME. GERSTER. The company partook of an appetizing lunch given by Mr. Felton, after which the Madame, in company with Misses Low, Mills and Hull, was shown the beauties of Menlo by the Russian Consul. The remainder of the perty drove at will throughout the Park. At 4:30 the guests boarded the train for home. At the different steriors, were seen based. people anxious to catch a glimpse of the celebrated vocalist. A wealth of flowers greeted the party at every stopping place. Among them was an exquisite bouquet composed exclusively of wild flowers, bearing the inscription, "Nature's homage to her interpreter," which pretty sentiment pleased the Madame greatly. The party reached town at 6 o'clock. In the evening Madame Gerster attended the German Theatre as the guest of Henry Heyman. On Tuesday night the Austro-Hungarian Consul, Rudolf Hochkofler, and his daughter, Mrs. Raoul Martinez, invited the Madame and party to Consul, Rudolf Hochkofler, and his daughter, Mrs. Raoul Martinez, invited the Madame and party to inspect the Chinese quarters. A visit was paid to the leading Chinese merchants. The party also visited the Chinese Theatre, where a special play was produced in honor of the fair diva. A tone of the Chinese restaurants several Chinese girls gave the Hungarian songstress an exhibition of their vocal powers. The Madame expressed herself as being delighted at the novel sights and scenes witnessed in the Chinese neighborhood, and an nounced her intention of again visiting that quarter before her departure from the city. On Thrisday the day evening Mrs. Isaac Hecht entertained Madame Gerster at dinner, at her residence, No. 1201 Van Ness avenue, no other guests being present outside of the members of the family. On Friday it became known that Madame Gerster would be at home in the evening to those who desired to call, and in consequence her apartments at the Palace, were on the occasion mentioned thronged with the elite of the city. The Madame received her guests in a becoming toilet of soft material, the waist being of blue velvet, profusely ornamented with pink camellias; the skirt was of pure white, made dancing length, corsage cut square. So much has been said regarding the magnificent floral tributes presented Madame Gerster at the matinee on Saturday that a brief description of them may not be uninteresting. The principal piece was a floral temple, in the centre of which was a placed a statue of Faust and Marguerite; this work of art was executed by the renowned Italian sculptor, Romanelli. The Hungarians presented an immense bank of flowers, on which was wrought in choice exotics the words, "Eljen, Gerster, Etelka." The first word is Hungarian, and signifies "hall." The first word is Hungarian custom. From one side of the bank emanated a white down surrounded by the Hungarian colors. The piece which received and deserved the most attention was a large floral star, six feet in diameter, which was placed in the centre of the Edward Lasker Lodge, No. surname in accordance with the Hungarian custom. From one side of the bank emanated a white dove, surrounded by the Hungarian colors. The centre consisted of froses, dotted with camellias. The ground work of the piece was composed of white flowers. An elegant laurel wreath was much admired. In addition to the above were innumerable baskets and bonquets of every conceivable shape and design. On Saturday evening Madame Gerster enjoyed a short walk through our principal thoroughfares. Yesterday afternoon she was driven to the Cliff House, and in the evening dined with some friends. To-morrow she will be the guest of several society ladies and gentlemen, who have invited her to a sail around the bay. The evening she will spend with a few intimate friends. On Friday night the San Francisco Verein will tender Madame Gerster a reception at their rooms, corner of Sutter and Dupont streets. For the day following the Madame has accepted invitations to two entertainments. MME. ADELINA PATTI. In order that her marvelous voice may not become impaired by too frequent contact with our bracing winds, Madame Adelina Patti has kept in as close retirement as possible during the past week, her only diversion being a daily drive to the Cliff House. Yesterday she, in company with several members of the troupe, visited Belmont. On Wednesday evening the Italian colony, headed by Consul Lambertinghi and Vice-Consul Brchanteau, will give a grand ball in her honor at No. 71 New Montgomery street. The affair will doubtless be a brilliant one in every respect. As Mme. Patti is announced to appear in opera three times this week, she will have little opportunity to indulge in social gayeties, and the extreme care which she is obliged to exercise over her superb vocal organs, will doubtless keep her in retirement when not attending to professional duties.
