Republican Is Class Ticket.

My friends, as I said before, there are a number to follow me and I want to hasten on. There is another danger to these considerations that to my mind is as great a danger as the other and that is the danger presented by the Republican ticket. This ticket is just as much, or almost as much, a class ticket as the other, because it represents that very high and exclusive class of the bosses and the allied corporations of this city.

the laws of Moses but even the ten commandments themselves.

I submit to you that that is a very small hole for the bosses' candidate for Mayor to attempt to crawi through. No one can see how lie got through that hole. It is even a smaller hole than the tanner's calf was supposed to crawl through. A tanner, if you will pardon the discression, as an illustration, once owned a tannery in the suburbs of the city. He was in need of a sign for his tanning establishment and he conceived the idea that a calf's tail thrust through a knothole in the side of his building would make a very appropriate sign. So he acted accordingly.

The calf's tail had not been thrust through the knothole very long until an old farmer came along with his good wife driving to town past the tannery, and when the old farmer espied the calf's tail sticking through the knot hole in the side of the tannery he was greatly excited, and thus ejaculated: "Gee whiz, Maria, if I can see how that air calf

FIFTY THOUSAND GIVEN TO WORTHY CHARITIES

AN unprincipled attack on Joseph S. Tobin is brought to public attention. The Bulletin last evening reports that Dr. J. F. Gibbon made this allusion to the Tobins at Palo Alto Hall Thursday night: "The Tobins are very charitable with other people's money; they gave $50,000 of our money to the Valley Railroad as a free gift; they had no more right to give it than I would if I had that amount of your money in my charge. When the Valley Railroad sold out to the Santa Fe Railroad the money was returned in stock or cash, and was not returned to the Hibernia Bank reserve fund, where it was taken from, but was placed in the Crocker-Woolworth Bank, where it remained."

It may interest the voters of San Francisco to know what became of this gift of $50,000, which was returned when the Santa Fe bought the Valley road. The sum of $25,000 was donated to the Catholic Orphan Asylum; the sum of $12,500 to the Protestant Orphan Asylum, and the sum of $12,500 to the Hebrew Orphan Asylum.

San Francisco got the railroad and the orphans got the money. Will the defamers of Mr. Tobin please spring something else to assist in his election?

GOULD MAKES GREAT ADDRESS. Likens Republican Ticket to a Bed One in Philadelphia.

Frank H. Gould paid a caustic compli-nent to both Samuel M. Shortridge and Asa R. Wells when he said in the course

I say whatever influence may dominate a party, whatever crowd may obtain control of a convention, for a man to say that notwithstanding all that he follows wherever they go although it be in the hands of freebooters, why, men of that kind are warts on the tail of progress. A man of that kind, my friends—but I do not include Mr. Shortridge because he is not that kind of a man—but men of that character have banded together recently in the city of Philadelphia, and there but a short time since, in the course of a great campaign, one of the Republican orators there, I am credibly informed, made this statement from a rostrum:

wells Had One Fixed Opinion.

Mr. Wells did have a fixed opinion on one question, and that question was as to the honsety and capability of the present Democratic Board of Supervisors. But a few months ago he said, in speaking of this board, that it was the best Board of Supervisors that San Francisco has had for forty years. (Applause.) After his nomination, after he had condemned his own candidates for Supervisors, he attempted to qualify this declaration, and now says that the Board of Supervisors was honest, but that the charter made them honest, (Laughter.) I always knew that the charter was a very virtuous instrument, but I have never heard that it could make men in office honest and capable. If it can do this, it not only exceeds the laws of Moses but even the ten commandments themselves.

I submit to you that that is a very small hole for the bosses' candidate for Mayor to attempt to crawl through. No one can see how he got through that hole. It is even a smaller hole or that the charter was supposed to crawl through. No one can see how he got through that hole. It is even a smaller hole than the tanner's calf was supposed to crawl through. No one can see how hole than the tanner's calf was supposed to crawl through. No one can see how hole than the tanner's calf was supposed to crawl through. A tanner, if you will pardon

Work of the Assessor.

Work of the Assessor.

That means that from the shoulders of the other people who have in the past paid taxes would be lifted an amount equal to about $235,000 per year. Another thing: During the last two or three years the Assessor elected by the administration now in power has added to the taxable property in the shape of personal property that has never been assessed before the sum of forty millions of dollars, which added to the twenty-three millions gives us sixty-three millions of dollars added to the assessable property of this city which never was assessed before, the taxation thereon annually amounting to the sum of $674,000.

I want to call your attention to this fact that if a Board of Supervisors subservient to the corporations whose franchises have been taxed by this Assessor should be elected, they, sitting as a board of equalization, would have power at the behest of those who elected them to wipe out the good work of your Assessor and replace upon your shoulders the taxes that these people now justly bear. (Applause.) Therefore, I say, it behoves you to look well to the ticket you elect for Supervisors at the

Every Man Is Interested.

Gentlemen, this is no time for the discussion of political economy or for discussion of the underlying principles of government. There is nothing here, gentlemen, but the discussion of a business proposition. Every man who pays his taxes, who sees his money go into the City Hall every six months, is interested in the discussion and in the decision of this campaign; interested not as a Democrat, not as a Republican, not as a labor unionist, but as a citizen anxious to preserve the good name and future prosperity of this city. (Applause.) But they say, ladies and gentlemen, we are coposed to corporations—we are inimical to the interests of corporations. I stated at the outset of this campaign that no corporation has anything to fear from the nominees upon this ticket. What the law says they shall demand of us that they shall receive in full measure. They shall be treated just as fairly, just as conscientlously, with just as much respect for their rights as the poorest, the lowest citizen in this land and they shall be treated thus and in no other wise. Gentlemen, we have incurred the opposition of some corporations, but those corporations what they have stood for in the history of San Prancisco, you know. We have incurred their wrath, but we have done them no injustice. If we are elected, gentlemen, every business interest in San Francisco, every conservative interest in San Francisco, will be fairly, honestly and justly treated and no man can escape from the responsibility cast upon him at this time for voting the Democratic ticket by the cry that we will abuse vested interests or Every Man Is Interested.

IS SUPPORTING JOSEPH TOBIN

N order to boost Wells and make it appear that he is in the fight the managers at Republican boss headquarters are spreading the report that several leading business men of the Democratic party are announcing intention to support Wells in preference to Tobin. Yesterday the claim was made at Republican headquarters that ex-Mayor E. B. Pond was going to vote for Wells. Inquiry on behalf of The Call at Mr. Pond's office quickly established the fact that the boss report is simply a plain campaign lie. Mr. Pond says: "I am not going to vote for Wells. I am not advising my friends to vote for him. He is too big a load for me to carry. I am going to vote for Tobin."

Tobin spoke in part as follows:

I am not unappreclative of the kind words Mr. Barrett has spoken, but I want to assure you that the position I hold at this time is entirely due to the force of circumstances. I take no particular credit for the measure of prosperity which has fallen to my lot. I appreciate it, but I fall to see that I have done more than any other young man would in similar circumstances.

Mr. Barrett has been good enough to speak of my people and my character. I want to say that there is no family in this district any lowlier in station than was mine. My father was a poor man. He knew all about the dark side of a poor man's life; he knew all about the bitter struggle that falls to the lot of the man that has to labor for a living. Sympathy with the laboring man was bred in my bones and any man that says I do not sympathize with the laboring man is mistaken and whoever says I am not fit to represent him says that which is not true. I defy my enemies to point to any single act in my private or public career inimical to the interests of the workingman. I stand before you now Just as much a young workingman as any one in this audience. The ticket at the head of which I have the honor to stand is just as much for the workingman as any ticket in the field. We have increased laborers' pay at the City Hall to $2.50 a day. The meeting at Garibaldi Hall spoke volumes for the sentiment toward Tobin in the Forty-fifth District. There was no occasion for bonfire or brass band to kindle the enthusiasm. He was greeted as a personal friend and given a parting cheer which he said afterward would make him feel always that in that part of town he was in the territory of his friends.

He spoke as follows:

"He had such terrible coughing spells we not only grew much alarmed but looked for the bursting of a blood-vessel or a hemorrhage at most any time. After three days' coughing he was too weak to cross the room. The doctor did him no good. I stated the case to a druggist, who handed me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. My husbands recovery was remarkable. In three days after he began using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery he was up and around, and in two more days he went to work. Two bottles cured him."
