DEAD DESPERADOES.

Some "Bad Men" of California's Early Days.

TERRORS OF THE COMMUNITY

Oregon Ned, Jack Powers and "Yank" Riley-A Plucky Arrest and a Desperate Escape-Exploits of Belcher Kay.

You are welcome again, sir ; take that chair. This time I want you to tell me something. I have seen in some of the city papers that the band of conspirators who are responsible for the extra session and the Stockton Convention are already planning to secure appointments for themselves for the best Federal offices in the State, under President Cleveland. Is there any truth in it? Why, these are the identical men who broke supplied to the Alcalde, and with this force he proceeded himself to the hotel to make the ar-rest of the contunacions desperado. Six of the soldiers he placed about the hotel; the other six he took with him inside. The landlord was a Frenchman, named De la Haye. He declined to give any information whether Riley was still in his room. He said he never, interfered in the coming or going of his lodgers. Alcalde Roach then down the Democratic party in our State. Pat into the management of it two years ago, they so wrecked it that the big majority of 23,000 was so wrecked it that the big majority of 23,000 was wiped out, and the Republicans have the State by 14,000. We had the six Congressmen, the Legis-lature, and the entire State Government, with almost every county, and now the Republicans have five of the Congressmen, the Legislature, and most of the counties, and they will elect the United States Senator. All of this terrible re-mons this mention default is dimetry transphle LED THE SOLDIERS UP-STAIRS Into the hall, and knocked at Riley's door. No response was given. The Alcalde at once, in load voice, announced his business, and declared if the door was int instantly opened and unless Riley peacefully surrendered, the door would be forced open and hinself made prisoner. Desperate as "Yank" was, he felt that it was discretion to comply. The door was instantly opened and Riley surrendered, after shaking his finger in the Alcalde's face, with the threat, "I'll fix you for this." His comrade kept quict. "Yank" then United States Senator. All of this terrible re-verse, this mortifying defeat, is directly traceable to these very men, and to appoint any of them to Federal office would be equivalent to rewarding them for their follies and their wickedness; it would be to endorse their enormities in the extra session and the Stockton Convention; to keep us from redeeming the State in the important elec-tion of 1886; to pay a premium for wrecking the party. President Cleveland will certainly not prefer the men who have done this, who OFPOSED HIS OWN NOMINATION At Chicago, and held out to the last against him. Alcalde's face, with the threat, "I'll fix yon for this." His comrade kept quiet. "Yank" then said they had a good deal of money in the room and begged permission to make disposal of it. A few minutes was granted for this; but instantly the door was closed, the window opened, and from it the two leaped into the balcony, thence upon the shed of an adjoining building, from that over a high adobe wall into the street, and got away. The soldiers stationed about the hotel had wit-nessed the escape; Riley and his comrade saw them and fired upon them with their revolvers. It was now quite dark, and as there were a number of citizens in the street, the soldiers did not return the fire, lest an innocent person might be shot.

prefer the men who have done this, who OPPOSED HIS OWN NOMINATION At Chicago, and held out to the last against him. But I am astounded at their cheek. True, I re-member, that although they opposed Stoneman at San José, and afterward indulged in the vilest lan-guage and most bitter abuse of him, they were the first to ask high offices at his hands. But Governor Cleveland says not a man of them should have a place at the President's disposal. Ah, well, I will cease this, and now I am ready for you. Let me think a moment. How would then aqration of scenes in other portions of California in the early days answer? All right. You know of course that among the crowds which rushed here on the news of the discovery of gold there were a great many desperate characters from all parts of our own country and from every quarter of the globe. There were also a considerable number of the same class already here—men who had come with the military and naval forces sent here from the East, and from Mexico after the peace, and a few of the native population. These desperadoss ter-rorized every community which they infosted, as the Hounds had done in San Francisco. They gen-erally kept clear of the mines and frequented the californians were least protected. Los Angeles, Monterey, Santa Cruz, San José and Stockton were their favorite hannts in the Southern district, and they rarely ventured above Sacramento in the Northern district. Upon the acquisition of Calithey rarely ventured above Sacramento in the Northern district. Upon the acquisition of Cali-fornia by the United States, it was organized as

A MILITARY TERRITORY,

With General Bennst Riley as Military Governor and Captain Henry Wager Halleck as Secretary of the Territory. The Federal Constitution was ex-tended over the Territory, but the Spanish laws, or the laws of Mexico as they had been adminor the laws of Mexico as they had been admin-istered, were adhered to in general form, with pre-fects, sub-prefects, alcaldes, etc. General Riley was a brave soldier and an accomplished officer, an intrepid commander, and had worn the yellow sash of the Major-Generalship by his gallantry and skill as a warrior. Captain Halleck, you know, resigned from the army early, became the head of the greet law firm of Halleck. Peachy & Billings, entered the Union service during the civil war, was promoted to the virtual direction of the army and died a Major-General. Monterey was the Territorial Capital, and there during 1849 until the adoption of the State Constitution, passed by the Convention which was held at that passed by the Convention which was held at that place, many of the desperadoes congregated. Philip A. Roach, just re-elected Pablic Adminis-trator, I am rejoiced to say, was the Alcalde, and all the civil and criminal cases were tried by him. The more desperate of these terrors to the com-munity from the States were not thieves; it was of human life they were most reckless, and they of human life they were most reckless, and they of the added violence and outrage to their bloody deeds. But there were also Deputies this afternoon during the debate on the English Debt Conversion bill. While the discus-sion was in progress shots outside were heard, and the result was wild confusion in the galleries, which was quickly communicated to the body of the house. It was impossible to obtain order, and the Speaker was compelled to adjourn the session. An increased number of troops patroled the streets this evening, and order was preserved. THE WIDOW'S HOME Was broken into one night by "Yank" Riley, but she and her daughters made such outory as soon to bring neighbors to the place and Riley escaped from the premises, foiled by the desper-ate resistance of the inmates. Upon the applica-tion of a native citizen the next morning, Alcalde Roach issued a warrant for Riley's arrest. He was known to be in his room in the Washington Hotel, and his comrade was with him. When the officer went to arrest him, "Yank" drew his pis-tol, ordered the officer to leave, and in defiance said : "You and the Alcalde can go to hell." This was duly reported to the Alcalde, who then ex-pressed his determination that Riley should be taken, alive or dead ; that law and order should prevail and protection be assure to all. He called upon General Riley, as the civil force was not sufficient, and requested military aid. General Riley promptly replied that the entire force under his command, infantry, cavairy and artillery, was at his service, for that or any future similar occa-sion. A detail of twelve men was immediately supplied to the Alcalde, and with this force he proceeded himself to the hotel to make the ar-rest of the contumacions desperado. Six of the

The next day report came that they were seen riding at high speed toward San Juan. Immedi-ately, a force of twenty-five mounted men, well armed, started in pursuit. They overtook the pair, and the night following "Yank" Riley and his friend were brought into Monterey, and com-mitted to prison by the Alcalde. An ample force was ordered from the garrison to guard against another escape. Riley vehemently denounced the Alcalde for putting "a gentleman" like himself in such a wretched place. The next day the exami-nation was in progress, when into the harbor came the steamship from Panama. Among the passen-gers who came ashore to see the place was Alex. Wells, afterwards Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. Riley offered him $1,000 in gold to de-fend him. It was declined, and Wells came on to San Francisco. binned by Johnstein this city, by appointment of bor Master's office in this city, by appointment of the Governor. Kay was an Englishman, and had been transported for crime. He escaped from Sydney, made his way to Boston, where he figured as a pugilistic professor, and had for pupils and friends the young bloods of the Hub. From there he came to California, and was a sort of general favorite with many good citizens, who regarded he came to Čalifornia, and was a sort of general favorite with many good citizens, who regarded him as an honest man, somewhat fast, but that was not so much an objection then. He was a splendidly formed fellow, and very jovial and companionable. He and his pals in the Custom Honse robbery got away with the swag, and Kay soon after left the State. Dr. Randall was Col-lector at the time. He was killed in the old St. Nicholas Hotel on Sansome street in 1856 by Hethrington, who was hanged by the Vigilance Committee. Among the most dreaded and most reckless of the desperadoes who infested Monterey in 1849, occasionally making visits to other places, were were

"Oregon Ned" was a remarkably handsome fellow of about 23 years, fine figure, lithe, active, fearless, with piercing black eyes and black carly hair, who had come from Oregon. His right name I never learned. Jack Powers had come here with Colonel Stevenson's regiment. He stood about five feet ten inches, was of strong, well-built, wiry frame. His desperate courage was betokened in his face, which was not unprepossessing, but a cast in one of his eyes gave him a rogaish look. Gambling and deviltry were passions with him; but he was as generous as he was reckless of life, and this caused him to be favored and liked by many of the native Californians, by his old com-rades of the regiment and others, while among the women he was a great favorite. He excelled in women he was a great favorite. He excelled in horsemanship; no vaquero could surpass him, and as a class they honored him. On one occasion he rode from Monterey to Stockton without pause or rest, except to eat a hasty meal. He delighted in monte, and he lost heavily to break the bank, which he often did. Then he scattered the silver coins below a half dollar among the crowd to en-joy the scramble for the "chicken feed," as he called it. It was Jack Powers who concealed and sheltered Judge Ned McGowan at Santa Barbara in 1856, when Chief of Police Curtis and a force of Vigilantes went there in a schooner to capture him. McGowan was hidden in a roll of matting out in a yard while the pursuers were searching the town McGowah was hidden in a roll of matting out in a yard while the pursuers were searching the town for him, and had he been taken he would un-questionably have been hanged on the return here. Fowers was at last murdered in his bed by a party of Mexicans who feared him. "Jack" Riley was of nextcans who feared him. "Jack" Hiley was the worst of the trio in every respect. There was in him a mean and vicious streak, and he would hesitate at nothing when his passions were aroused or his enmity inflamed. He was not thirty years of age; but he was wicked enough to be twice that, with added experience every year. He claimed to be a killed a miner, also at a game of cards, in the old Alhambra saloon in this city, corner of Kearny and Washington streets. The firm course pursued by Alcalde Roach had the effect to clear the place of Riley and other desperate characters. Had he lived, Riley would doubtless have made good his threats to kill Roach. But he died, as so many of his kind die, with his boots on. This will do for this time. I will be ready for you next week, with something better and in better strain. Good night.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

The Cholera in Spain.

MADRID, November 18th .- During the past twenty-four hours there have been six suspicious cases of sickness, and three deaths, supposed to be from cholera, at Beniopa, in the Provice of Va-lencia. Troops have thrown a cordon around the town. Two suspicious cases and one death have occurred at Toledo. American Politics Discussed in England.

LONDON, November 18th.-Lord Dunraven pab-lishes a reply to the letter of John Bright. Lord Durawen states, in contradistinction to the state-ments of Bright, that wages have risen more in America than in England; that American workingmen are much better off, and that tens of thou-sands of English artisans are thus attracted to America. Lord Dunraven also states that the trade of Russia, France and America during the last of Russia, France and America during the last seven years has been rapidly extending, while the trade of England has been declining. Lord Dun-raven says the party of protection and monopoly in America has been overthrown, but that Bright has supported the Republican party by tongue and pen since 1861; and now in the first moment of its misfor-tune and humiliation, has nothing but contemptuous epithets for that party, forgetful that the Democrats of America are as much heldred to protection as the Ronphileans. This pledged to protection as the Republicans. This correspondence has been induced by the Hackney election, which takes place to-morrow, in which "local option" enters as largely as "free trade" or "fair trade."

A Vast Canadian Lake,

QUEBEC, November 18th.-T. H. Bignell of this city, who left in June last in command of the transport expedition to Lake Mistassini, has retransport expedition to Lake Mistassini, has re-turned. He gives a few particulars taken en route. The party with great difficulty reached the provinces of the Northern boundary, or Height of Land. They then crossed into Rupert's Land, and at a distance of 360 miles from Lake St. John they reached the southwestern extremity of great Lake Mistassini. He states that the general trend of the lake, as far as known, is from southwest to northeast, stretching away from Foam Bay and the Height of Land in the southwest to an un-known distance toward the east. The Main and Labrador waters swarm with fish of all kinds, and fur-bearing animals are abundant. The climate is Labrador waters swarm with hish of all kinds, and fur-bearing animals are abundant. The climate is agreeable and suitable for agricultural purposes. He stated that the Hudson Bay Company have had their agency there for upwards of one hun-dred years, but have held it secret that a lake of such dimensions ever existed. It is supposed to be as large as Lake Superior. Prospects of a Settlement Between France

Trospects of a settlement is etween France and China. LONDON, November 18th.—Detachments of ma-rines have been ordered to reinforce the British squadron in Chinese waters. It is expected that the negotiations of the British Socretary of State for Foreign Affairs, the French Ambassador to England, and the Chinese Ambassador will shortly lead to a settlement of the Franco-Chinese dis-rate
