BEARING IT TO MISSION ST.

More "Excelsior"-A Week of "Pop"-More "Pop"-The Standard Treat for This Week-The Knights' Success.

Although the spectacular attraction which closed at the California Theatre last night was from its novelty, grandeur and massive proportions a pro-nounced success and assured a long run from the opening contest between the two illustrative characters, it was generally believed that whatever might be the demand for its retention it had a limited stay. Louisville, in connection with its preparations for its Exposition, has made extenpreparations for its Exposition, has made extensive alterations and enlargements in its show building in anticipation of this entertainment, great in proportions and executions, and the press notices relative to its production have been full of happy expectation. But hereafter the Louisvilleans and the Kiralfys will not speak as they pass by. The engagement is off and a breach of promise case is threatening. The allurements of our fascinating city have captivated "Excelsior" and here it will remain, having exhausted the pockets of our well-to-dos, and to-night open at the Grand Open. House at popular prices, which, with the extra seating-capacity of that theatre, will make the treasury about as rich. It is not for this column to decide upon the right or wrong of the jilting of the good people of the Bourbon city, but the residents of Louisville, to state it mildly, are mad—boiling mad—and the press of that city state that the matter has been placed in legal hands for a final settlement in Court. The Courier-Journal, in speaking of the Kiralfys, says, "the break was premeditated on their part, and their reasons will appear as soon as the new engagements for the three weeks are made public." However long "Excelsior" may tarry in San Francisco it should be encouragingly patronized, as the gorgeous spectacle calls into play a vast expenditure of money, fine management, gorgeous costnming, with timely action, and teaches with its glittering show the lesson of progress in science.

At the Baldwin Theatre the Otto Company, with Mr. George S. Knight in the titular role, have been doing a fair and legitimate business during the week. Whatever may be the size of an audience, with manager Hayman's attractions it Muniversully represents cash, and by counting the heads in the auditorium one can also count the dollars in his Treasurer's keeping for that evening. "Otto" has been seen and heard far and near throughout the country; it has brought fame and fortune to the genius who, for character delineation, dialect and the exp sive alterations and enlargements in its show build-ing in anticipation of this entertainment, great in

The return of Rice's Surprise Party in "Pop" to this city and the Bush-street Theatre, with a new company, excepting one or two of the former favorites, was looked for with such apprehensions of weakening in talent, that with the opening night, notwithstanding the excellence of the entertainment, the public were not prepared or willing to yield in their disappointment at not seeing Mackey and the others to their good opinions of the different parts constituting the programme. As the best of attendance has resulted nightly, it is only a fair conclusion that the public is now very well satisfied. Miss Castleton, with her charming ways, fine costumes at times in dressy parts, and modest attire in her Quaker impersonations, and again in full dress as the dude, is the same Kate as before, with her voice brinfull and running over with favorite songs, accompanied with pretty steps, and is the life and spirit of the occasion, assisted by Mr. Richmond, who, with a dried-up-and-about-to-blow-away appearance, crested as great deal of hlundering fun as Pow Ho occasion, assisted by Mr. Richmond, who, with a dried-up-and-about-to-blow-away appearance, creates a great deal of blundering fun as Pop. He is not a Mackey, but, following in the footsteps of one so warmly applanded, a comparison is odious, for he is in earnest in his endeavors, and will be appreciated when his predecessor is more generally forgotten. The four young ladies who personate the dudes are recalled on every occasion, and this interpretation is one of the improvements which "Pop" presents at this time. New songs, local hits and specialty parts will be introduced in the programme for the present week, and the sale of seats promises an attendance equally as large as has already favored the company.

the attendance has not been very encouraging.

"The Royal Middy," the lyric production at the Tivoli Opera House for two weeks, with a translation and adaptation expressly for this theatre, closes its run this evening. The attendance has been of the best and the andiences unstinted in their applause. The piece has been beautifully mounted and the ladies of the cast bewitchingly costumed. Miss Hattie Moore has played the role of the Royal Middy with charming effect, singing with a spirit and dash peculiarly her own. The midshipmen's chorus won especial favor, demanding repetition. To-morrow evening "The Mascot."

This afternoon the Standard Minestels will.

This afternoon the Standard Minstrels will give a performance at Woodward's Gardens in conjunction with a large number of other specialty ar ists. An enlarged stage has been erected for the sixty performers, who are announced for the day's enter-

Charles Wyndham and Henry Irving are the two wealthiest English actors, and comedy is still considerably head of tragedy. It is a strange coincidence that these two actors, England's representative tragedian and comedian, in the early days of their career were rivals, and stormed the Provincial towns in the same company, and are still firm and warm admirers the one of the other.

A prima donna is apt to meet with strange adventures, and the diva Patti is not exempt; in fact, the familiar prefix to her name led to a queer complication in San Francisco during her recent visit there. It appears that a professional who had read of her in the papers as "the greatest diva on earth" sent her a challenge to swim any distance she liked to name for a silver cup.—New York Graphic.

The New York Tribune of the 19th inst. contains the following, which may affect one of our local theatres: "Mrs. Nat Goodwin (Miss Eliza Weathersby) has been suffering for a few days from a severe cold. It was feared at one time that symptoms of pneumonia were developing, but yesterday she was pronounced out of danger. Since the death of her young sister Emie, Mrs. Goodwin has been in a low state of health, and under the circumstances she and her husband have determined to cancel their immediate engagements."

Upon the conclusion of her engagement in Brooklyn, N. Y., Mile. Rhea will leave immediately for this city under special engagement at the Baldwin Theatre, to appear on Monday evening, May 5th. This talented French actress is described as being decidedly vivacious, with brilliant, intelligent eyes, coal-black hair, knotted low in the neck, with a bang in front coming quite close to her eyebrows in a becoming fringe. Her mouth is expressive, and when she smiles discloses a sparkling row of teeth. Adrienne, the role in which she appears on the opening night, has always been since the time of Rachel, for whom it was written, a test part for French actresses. The emotions dominating it are so diverse and run was written, a test part for French actresses. The emotions dominating it are so diverse and run with such rapidity the entire gamut of passion, that its effective impersonation demands talents of the very highest order. To say then that Mile. Rhea fully embodies all the exacting requirements of the part is to give to her the high meed of praise so deservedly her due. Her Adrienne is natural, tender, sympathetic and womanly. Her costumes are marvels of the modiste's art, and add by their appropriateness and elegance another charm to her performance, at least to the feminine mind.

Since the abdication of the Standard Theatre by the Minstrels, the attempt to keep open doors by transient organizations has been not very successful, and the venture of last week was a bad one, as "Pocahontas" was withdrawn on Thursday evening for various caneses—the principal ones being poor health on the part of the public. For this evening only the Minstrels will reappear, with all the old favorites who have been the stand-bys for so many months of immense success. On Monday evening the Hungarian Gypey Band, comprising thirteen members, commence an engagement, playing their music entirely from memory upon instruments, all but two being the ordinary stringed ones of the orchestra. Of the remaining two, one plays a small high clarinet, and the other the Hungarian cymbel, an instrument which is a sort of planforte, without a key-board, the strings being set vibrating with two little soft-headed hammers, which the player holds in his hands. Their music comprises selections from Stranss, Millockor, Verdi, Wagner, Liszt and others.

These Gypsies have been granted a season vacation for a tour through the United States, and none should fail to hear them. They produce orchestra effects never before heard in America, and to hear these men play their "Csardas," to listen to the long-drawn wail of the "Lassan," the frantic ruch and the sharp breaking of the rhythm in the "Friska," is teally appreciate what furious intensity of effect music is capable of.
