CEBHART'S SUCCESSOR.

He Turns Out to be H. Oelricks of Wyoming.

THEY DRIVE OUT AND DINE.

The "Cowboy" Does Not Like Walking, So the Lily Has to Ride-A Trip Through Chinatown.

"There goes the Lily's cowboy adorer," said an idler at the Baldwin bar, as a stout, large built man, dressed in a dark brown suit, stepped briskly out of the hotel at 10 o'clock and got into a handsome Victoria that was waiting at the side en-

"He's going to take the Lily out for an airing," said another, "for that's the same team she got from the Fashion Stables, yesterday, and you can bet your last nickel that the driver got orders to pick the cowboy up on his way down to Lang-

The "cowboy," as he was called, lolled back in the Victoria with an air which said as plainly as words could speak, "I'm putting up for this rig and propose to enjoy it." When he was out of sight an ALTA reporter, who had heard what was said, made some inquiries to find out who and what the cowboy is who has taken the place once occupied by the immortal Gebhardt. The renorter soon discovered that the cowboy has a name, though he will hereafter find but little use for it, now that his friendship for the Lily has brought him into prominence as the "cowboy." HIS NAME

Is H. Oelricks and his native land England. He is a brother of the big steamship man of that name, and doubtless made the acquaintance of the Lily on the other side of the Atlantic. He is rich in lands and cattle on the plains and hills of Wyoming Territory, and first came into prominence as an appendage of the Lily at Salt Lake, where he occupied a proscenium box at the Langtry performance and attracted general attention by his open adoration of Freddy's flame. In appearance and manner he is the exact opposite of Freddy. Freddy is tall and slim and a fine sample of the Anglo-maniac dude. The "cowboy" is broad and stout, robust in person and speech, bronzed of face, huge of hand, and looks just what he is—a well-to-do cattle man—and his bluff, open manner must be a pleasant change to the Lily after an overdose of Freddy's lackadaisical attention.

After the ALTA reporter had found out all that could be discovered of the "cowboy's" antecedents, he concluded that a drive in the park would be pleasant recreation, and procuring a team, jogged out Cliffwards. As he turned into the park entrance

THE DASHING VICTORIA

Whirled past and in it was the "cowboy" comfortably tucked beneath the same robe that kept the Lily's feet from the fresh morning breeze. The Lily and her adorer were engaged in conversation presumably about the scrub oaks and firs which abound in that part of the park, for the Lily's dexter arm frequently emerged from the seclusion of the lap robe to indicate to which of the particular specimens of park arboriculture she was referring. When the Victoria reached the Park Lodge, the "cowboy" called a halt and after assisting the Lily out of the Victoria, the pair gave the driver directions to follow them and strolled off at a good four mile gait. The Lily was dressed in an indifferently well fitting green stuff walking dress which fell two inches short of the ground and allowed the reporter to see that while the Lily's feet are not out of proportion to her figure, still the stout balmorals which encased them, at a modest estimate reach the figure known to shoemakers as "full sevens." For a short time the Lily leaned on the "cowboy's" arm but the "cowboy" no doubt from his greater experience in the saddle than afoot proved

A POOR WALKER,

And his gait failing to acommodate itself to the Lily's swinging stride she dropped his arm and went it alone. As they walked down the gentle grade admiring the pretty flower beds and lawns the Lily's conversation was quite animated, and not infrequently the "cowboy" indulged in hearty laughter. They walked around Conservatory Valley and then spent some time admiring the flowers in the city's glass house, the Lily paying particular notice to the many rare specimens of orchids which beauthy the conservatory, and the "cowwhich beautify the conservatory, and the "cow-boy" looking as if the only vegetation in which he took an interest was the buffalo grass that fattened his cattle on the far of Wyoming hills. Several times he tried to get the Lily away, but she had to admire all the palms, and cacti, and fuchias be-fore she signified her willingness to brace the fresh air again. They walked out of the valley and as air again. They walked out of the valley and as far as the turn towards the race track where the "cowboy" intimated in a most positive manner that he preferred to press the cushions of the Victoria rather than flatten the macadam of

THE PARK ROADS.

Strangely enough the Lily, who the night before had ordered "Janitor Hayman" off the stage with an imperious villain-begone-sort of air, did not assert her desire to continue her tramp, but in pleading tones, as if in fear that her "cowboy" escort would brandish a six-shooter, or drag her to the Victoria by a lasso if she hesitated, said, "Oh, please do let's walk a little longer, I do so like to walk."

walk."
The "cowboy" gazed ruefully at his massive but tender feet, and in any but tender tones reiterated his wish that they should take the carriage. He walked towards the vehicle, and the Lily moved meekly after him, as Ruth might have folmoved meekly after him, as Ruth might have followed her staiwart admirer when he led her from the threshing machine to the altar. Then they drove out to the Cliff House, where their coming was evidently expected, for Mr. Sheldon had breakfast ready, and the pair, joined by a carriageload of members of the Langtry company, sat down to put themselves outside of a hearty meal. After breakfast Lily and the "cowboy" took seats on the balcony, and watched the sea lions till the "cowboy" got tired and ordered the carriage. They drove back through the Park to the Baldwin Hotel, where they nicked up a guide and started Hotel, where they picked up a guide and started

TRIP THROUGH CHINATOWN.

The Victoria was halted at the Bun Sun Low restaurant, where the Lily and the "cowboy" ascended to the top story and surrounded numberless cups of tea and quantities of candied fruit to strengthen their story also series that the of tea and quantities of candied fruit to strengthen their stomachs against the odors to come. Then they visited the Chinese Theatre, the Joss House, peeped into opium dens, peered into dark alleys, viewed the cramped accommodations of coolie lodging-houses, and did Chinatown generally in the manner of tourists, except that the Lily persuaded the "cowboy" to allow her to penetrate dens of dirt nsually left out of the routine trip. About five o'clock they tired of Chinatown and the Victoria was headed for Fourth and Townsend streets, where the Lily and the "cowboy" clambered into the Lily's car, the curtains were drawn, and secure from prying eyes, they doubtless enjoyed a tete-a-tete dinner, for when the Pacific Carriage Company's coupé whirled the Lily to the theatre for the evening performance, the "cowboy" was on hand to act as her escort. All day long the "cowboy" assumed an air of proprietorship towards the Lily which indicated the theatre. long the "cowboy" assumed an air of proprietor-ship towards the Lily which indicated that he had no doubt of the footing on which he stands to-wards her, and it looked as if he intended to make the best use of the time he has with the Lily away from the dade Freddy and her princely admirer on the other side of the Western Ocean.

More Interference with Nude Art.

Officer Billy Lean's eyes stuck out with virtue Officer Billy Lean's eyes stuck out with virtuous horror yesterday afternoon as he passed David Cobb's photograph gallery at No. 1144 Market street and observed a photo of a little Moses in the show case. Moses was a daisy on shape in this particular instance, and as he was not even screened by a basket or a bulrush, the observer had not the slightest difficulty in ascertaining that young Moses was physically perfect. In the language of Baron Tavernier, however, the officer informed Mr. Cobb that San Francisco was not ripe for nude art, and then he arrested him for having indecent pictures exposed for sale,

A MISSION ROMANCE.

A. Wunderlich's Desire for Divorce Leads to Bloodshed.

A laborer in the California Sugar Refinery, named Adolph Wunderlich, who resides on the Spring Valley Homestead Association tract, near the Five-mile House, on the old Mission road, has been for some time past enamored of a young girl, whose residence he passed en route to and from his daily toil. An incumbrance that prevented a sucessful wooing was his wife, although she had no knowledge that her position was such. The inno-cent woman became an object of hatred to the not brain-overburdened German, and he consulted several attorneys with a view to procuring a divorce. As not the slightest ground existed on which to base such a proceeding, his case was de which to base such a proceeding, his case was de-clined, and he was generally advised to make the best of his nuptial contract. Brooding over his hopeless passion for the Mission-road maid drove Wunderlich to hard drink, and he became "cranky" to a dangerous degree. On Monday after-noon his affin ity left her home to accept employ-ment as

A NURSE-GIRL,

And, noting her absence, the sugar-handler jumped to the conclusion that his wife had become aware of his passion and had spirited her rival away. This caused him to spend what silver he had about his clothes for intoxicants, and when he arrived at home he was in a frame of mind which caused the Recording Angel to credit him with a year in Purgatory. He abused his wife with language for some time, and then threatened to shoot her—a proposition which caused her to fiee to the house of a neighbor, Fernand Bedarf, for protection. Mr. and Mrs. Bedarf soothed her and took her home, and persuaded Wunderlich to put his pistol away. They returned, and ten minutes later the crazy husband again chased her over to Bedarf's, this time following her to the door. The kind neighbors again interceded, and invited Wunderlich in. After sitting in sullen silence for a few minutes, he went out and bought a pitcher of beer. On his return the quartet drank amicably together until the pitcher was nearly empty, when Wunderlich suddenly recommenced his abuse of his wife. Bedarf attempted to pacify him, when, without a second's warning, Wunderlich snatched a murderous 44-calibre revolver from his pocket and

He then fired a shot at his wife, who sank to the floor in a swoon, although untouched by the bullet, and thinking his work completed Winderlich let, and thinking his work completed Wuuderlich sprang out into the darkness and disappeared. The first heard of the affray outside was when Bedarf put in an appearance at the City Receiving Hospital for treatment. Police Surgeon Dennis pronounced that amputation was necessary, and after dressing the wound sent him to the City and County Hospital. Officers Price and Burke were notified by Chief Crowley and ordered to arrest the maniac. They found him sitting quietly in his house shortly after noon, still drunk, and with the revolver close at hand. He offered no resistance, however, and on being taken into custody remarked that he expected his visitors earlier in the day. He was locked up for assault to murder and could not make any coherent statement of the affair. Bedarf is considered in a critical condition, due to the wound having gone so long without attention.

The Criminal Courts.

The Criminal Courts.

In Department No. 1 of the Superior Court yesterday, Daniel Schroder, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was convicted of simple assault. Informations of grand larceny were filed by the District Attorney against Richard Kelly and August Seidel. A. J. Lucas and H. D. Wetmore, the bogus detectives, appeared for arraignment, and both pleaded not guilty. Lucas so out on bail, but Wetmore being a stranger, has been unable to procure sureties. The trial of both cases was set for the 8th prox. Judge Wilson will take a fortnight's vacation from Saturday next.

next.

In Judge Toohy's Court, on the District Attorney's motion, the defendant excepting, the case of John Specht, the ex-Deputy Coroner, charged with jury packing, was continued until July 10th. The case of Sidney Hall, the murderous Assemblyman, was continued until counsel could agree on a date for trial. Counsel for John J. O'Brien was allowed five days' additional time to prepare and file a bill of exceptions, and John Ivers pleaded not guilty of implication in the cemetery assault and obtained a continuance until Monday next. Chester, his co-defendant, has cemetery assault and obtained a continuance until Monday next. Chester, his co-defendant, has been released on $4,000 bail. The eases of Jackson, the street-warrant forger, and Fairfield, the embezzling wharfinger, were also continued, that of the former until to-morrow, and that of the latter until July 15th. Two additional indictments have been brought against Jackson by the present Grand Jury making a total of this tree. present Grand Jury, making a total of thirteen charges now pending.

Gatling Battery Election

Gatling Battery Election.

An election to fill a vacancy of Captain of the Gatling Battery, vice Murphy, resigned, was held at their armory last night, Lieutenant-Colonel David Wilder, presiding, when Samuel D. Simmons, a member of the company, was unanimously elected. Captain Simmons is the oldest member, by many years, now belonging to the command. He first joined the company in the Summer of 1861, soon after its organzation, which took place shortly after the Battle of Bull Run. He was appointed First Sergeant by the first commissioned Captain, W. R. Gorham, in December of the same year; elected [First Lieutenant in Jan., 1863; was elected Captain in December, 1864, and in command during the exciting days that followed the assassination of President Lincoln. He resigned on leaving for the East in August, 1866. On his return in April, 1877, be again enlisted as a private; was appointed a corporal by Captain A. J. Fritz; was elected Second Lieutenant in July, 1878, and First Lieutenant in July, 1880, in which capacity he served until July, 1882. Captain Simmons is also the author of the tactics for a Gatling-gun battery serving with an infantry support, and incorporated in the codes and regulations governing the National Guard of California, and should be a most efficient officer in command of those guns.

Barry's Reply to Lynn.

Tom Barry, the Pacific Life champion, replies to the challenge of Billy Lynn, the Nevada pugil-ist, to fight him with bare knuckles in Montana,

as follows:

San Francisco, June 17, 1884.

Mr. Billy Lynn—Sir: Having noticed your challenge published in the Pacific Life of last Saturday and in the Chronicle of this date, I beg leave to reply that my acceptance of the proposition to fight with bare knuckles in Montana is out of the question, as I cannot afford to neglect my business for the time required to comply with your propsal. I will, however, accept your second proposition to meet you in a glove contest in this city to settle the question of superiority. If you are really as anxious to fight as you pretend, you will find just what you are seeking, and perhaps more than you bargain for. Hoping you will lose no time in coming to the scratch to arrange preliminaries, I remain, yours respectfully, Tom Barry, Pacific Life Champion.

When Doctors Disagree, Etc.

When Doctors Disagree, Etc.

Tewise Corrigan, professionaly known as Mrs.
Dr. Tanner-Toner, of 602 California street, was arrested yesterday on a charge of obtaining $85 from Emily A. Cogswell by false pretences. The Doctor recently took Mrs. Cogswell into her "corre" as a partner, and for the consolidation Mrs. Cogswell paid $85 down, with the understanding that she was to pay a total of $650 out of the profits of the business. Monday night the Doctor alleged that a passion for the juice of the forbidden fruit on the part of Mrs. Cogswell unfitted her for business, and she accordingly advertised for another partner. She claimed that her partner's payment had been invested in the business, and therefore declined to make a rebate, the result being as stated.

A Campaign Club.

A Campaign Club.

Democratic Club No. 30 held a meeting last night at Aurora Hall, on Green street, near Larkin, for the purpose of forming a district Campaign Club. Mr. D. J. Mahoney was elected temporary President and O. H. Knight Secretary. It was moved that a committee of six be appointed, consisting of Messrs. Terrill and Conners from Club No. 30, Mahoney and McMann from No. 31 and Hewett and Conghlin from 32, be authorized to solicit subscriptions for campaign purposes; also two member from each Club to act as a Committee on Uniforms. Forty members joined the Club, and the meeting adjourned until next Friday.

QUARRELING NEIGHBORS.

Mr. O'Brien Stabs Mr. Duddy Twenty-one Times-No Damage. Edward F. O'Brien and Thomas Duddy are next-door neighbors on Bernal Heights. Duddy is a private watchman for Goodall, Perkins & Co., and his modest house fronts on Brewster street. and behind it a road runs along, and over this road O'Brien daily treads his way to get to his own domicile. Duddy has repeatedly informed O'Brien that such was no thoroughfare, and as often has the latter ignored the information. Of necessity, they have frequently had words, and warrants were issued, one against the other, for vulgar language. In the Police Court yesterday they were convicted, and when they met upon the they were convicted, and when they met upon the oft-disputed ground yesterday afternoon, they decided to revenge their wrongs. In the row which ensued, O'Brien stabbed Duddy twenty-one times with a pocket-knife, inflicting wounds that are not dangerous, all the way from the crown of his head to his waist, and scattered "permiscuous like" on his arms and hands. The knife-wielder and the butchered were booked for assault to murder by Officers Seymour, Helvey and Kelly. Duddy was charged on the complaint of O'Brien, who says he drew a pistol on him. Duddy says he didn't because he couldn't.

Christian Association, The parlors of the Young Men's Christian Association building were filled to their utmost capacity last evening with young men and their lady friends, the occasion being the last social and friends, the occasion being the last social and business meeting of the season, and also complimentary to Mr. H. J. McCoy, who leaves for the East to-morrow, en route to Berlin, Germany, to attend the World's Convention. During the evening the report of the employment department was presented, showing that 41 situations were secured lawing the month, and 45 mayners inpind the induring the month, and 45 members joined the institution. The building had been closed nearly all stitution. The building had been closed nearly all the month, owing to repairs going on, but, not-withstanding this fact, over 5,000 people visited the building on business connected with the institution. Short remarks were made by Mr. Peter B. Simons, First Vice-President of the Association, and Dr. N. W. Lane, State Secretary. Mr. McCoy will spend next Sabbath in Salt Lake City, and will sail from New York on July 10th for Berlin by the steamer Lessing, of the Hamburg and American Packet line, and will be absent about three months.

The Fourth of July.

The Fourth of July.

The Regatta Committee of the Fourth of July met yesterday, J. D. Griffin presiding and F. J. McAuliffe acting as Secretary. The Chairman said there were six rowing clubs in the city and another will be here on the Fourth. Last year three prizes were offered for Whitehall boats, amounting to $150. The total prizes for the regatta amounted to $747 50, being $565 for the regatta prizes, $130 for the Judge's launch for the regatta, and $52 50 for stakeboat assistance, etc. Captain Bulger moved that the committee recommend that the Supervisors allow the master mariners $500, which was adopted. The committee adjourned without preparing a programme, and will meet again at the call of the Chair.

The Literary Committee will meet to-day at 4 o'clock.

Lots of Tin.

Detectives Dan Coffey and Byram arrested B. Fromberg, an employé of Lusk & Co., fruit packers, yesterday, on six charges of petty larceny. Fromberg's duties as receiver of raw goods called him to the factory at 4:30 A. M., and his time seems to have been put in in stealing pigs of tin. Six of the stolen chunks of metal were recovered at junk stores, where he had disposed of them at prices averaging $13 50 each.

A New Complaint.

Owing to a defect in the complaint against Martha Wilson, the perjured witness in the Sharon case, a new complaint was drawn up yesterday and last night she was recharged. Her bonds re-

Inauguration of the Convention-Election of Officers.

The Prohibition Convention of California met in Silver Star Hall yesterday morning. There were 214 delegates present, in person or by proxy. The hall was elaborately decorated with flowers and evergreens. Col. George Babcock was made temporary Chairman, and, after the usual preliminary business, enlivened with singing, a recess was had.

After recess the Committee on Permanent Organization and Order of Business reported in favor of Joel Russell as permanent Chairman, Charles J. Covilland Secretary, and S. H. Walls Assistant Secretary. The report was adopted.

The order of business recommended by the committee was: 1—Appointment of a Committee on Platform and Resolutions, and, 2, report of that committee; 3—Nomination and election of five delegates-at-large to the National Convention; 4—Election of National delegates by districts; 5—Election of two Presidential electors-at-large; 6—Electors by districts; 7—Election of State Central Committee. ommittee.

The proceedings proved the Prohibitionists to have their side issues and cabals, just as the Democrats and Republicans have them; and at one time the Convention was on the eve of a riot. A printed slip reflecting upon George B. Katzenstein, Secretary of the Frand Lodge of Templars, who is a member of the Convention and a candidate at large for the State Central Committee, was circulated on the floor. Mr. Katzenstein was charged in the communication with having thrown the Temperance ticket two years ago in favor of Horace F. Page for Congress. Mr. Katzenstein took the floor on a question of privilege and stigmatized the charge as false, and said whoever the writer was, man or woman, was a "slanderous liar," with more words to that effect. He was heartly cheered, but as all the delegates were not on his side there would have been an equally hot response had not Colonel Babcock and the Chair by smooth words calmed the rising temper of the temperance people.

The Convention took another recess till evening to elect delegates at large to the State Central Committee.

It was moved that the delegation be instructed to present the name of Dr. R. H. McDonald of San Francisco for President of the United States on the Prohibition ticket and the meeting then adjourned.

TWO SUICIDES.

A Despairing Car Conductor and a Melan-choly Iron-Worker.

George A. Place, about 30 years of age, and until recently a conductor on the McAllister-street cable line, was found dead in bed in his room, at No. 1214 McAllister street, at 10:30 yesterday morning, with a small empty box, labeled "Strychnine," by his side. The deceased was a lodger in the longe, where little was known of him, except that lonse, where little was known of him, except that he was a native of Massachusetts, where he claimed his relatives resided. No letters explanatory of his desire for death were found, and it is only known that he had been very despondent since losing his situation. The body was removed to the Morgue. It was stated to the Coroner's deputies last night that the deceased was in the habit of taking morphine and laudanum to produce sleep, and it is thought that perhaps his death was the result of accident.

the result of accident.
At 5 o'clock yesterday morning an early 'longshoreman saw a man, dressed in the garb of a laborer, walk to the edge of Beale-street wharf and jump into the bay. He sank almost immediately, but the spectator called a boatman, and after some twenty minutes' grappling, brought the body to the surface and sent it to the Morgue. The deceased was about 40 years of age. Last night the body was identified as that of Maurice Call, an iron-worker. the result of accident. iron-worker.

What Killed Him?

Edward Maginagan, a boat-builder, about 35 years of age, and living at the Crystal Hotel, corner of Fourth and Berry streets, died at that place at 6 o'clock last night, under circumstances very much similar to the John Shanahan case, in which it was alleged that Officers Whittle and Foley clubbed him to death. At 3:15 o'clock on roley clubbed him to death. At 3:15 o'clock on the morning of June 8th, the deceased, who was very drunk, fell down at the corner of Third and Market streets, was picked up by Officers Cronin and O'Donnell, and by them charged with drunkenness, and taken to the Receiving Hospital, where a scalp wound in the back of his head was bandaged up. Seven hours thereafter he was discharged both from the bosnital and the city prison the keeper on watch hospital and the city prison, the keeper on watch taking $5 out of the $9 in the drunken man's possession as bail. He could not have gone home session as earl. He could not have gone home that day or night, as relatives inquired for him at the hospital. He was attended by Dr. Proseck, died as stated, and the body was taken charge of by the Coroner, and to-day an autopsy will be made to determine the cause of death.

More of Lewandowsky.

More of Lewandowsky.

Detectives Harper and Rogers yesterday booked an additional charge of grand larceny against B. Lewandowsky and Pat Furlong, whose enterprises have heretofore been treated of. The last charges are for obtaining a set of furniture valued at $100 from N. P. Cole & Co., and $200 worth of liquors from Naber, Alfs & Brune. Yesterday morning the officers found a valuable clock, a silver salver, a wine-cooler and some other articles, all the rea wine-cooler and some other articles, all the result of the prisoners' fraud, buried in a vacant lot at the corner of Chesley and Boyd streets.

What Git Got.

An oily Mongol calling himself Ah Git applied at the residence of W. S. Dewey, the journalist, yesterday morning for a job of window washing. His price was $2,but on his services being declined he fell to fifty cents, and was employed. Scarcely had he completed his task than Mrs. Dewey missed the contents of her purse, amounting to $6 75. Mr. Dewey called an officer, Git was got before he could get away, and a search of his person resulted in the officer getting back the exact amount which Git had got away with. Git was locked up for petty larceny.

"Rebel George" Captured.

"Rehel George" Captured.

Captain Pumyea and Detective Holland of the Oakland police, in obedience to a telegram from Chief Crowley, yesterday afternoon effected the arrest of a man named Howard, alias "Rebel George," a bunko sharp, who has been wanted by the authorities of this city since the 8th of May last for swindling Senator Sharon out of $100 on a forged check, and a Los Angeles Judge out of a considerable sum by means of one of his operations. The arresting officers came across their man on Broadway in the morning at 7 o'clock, and after shadowing him for some hours, captured him in a restaurant at the corner of Seventh and Washington streets.

Thrum's Revenge.

Fred.W., E. G., Jr., and Charles Bert, the brotherly trio who combinedly walloped John F. Thrum on Monday night, for printing unkind things about the management of the Grand Opera House, were arrested yesterday by Officer Clark on charges of battery preferred by Thrum. Their ball was set at $$00 each, which they furnished, with two saloon-keepers as bondsmen. Quarrel in a Dive.

James Price, a Barbary Coast rounder, quarreled with Minnie Bucholz in a Kearny-street dive, last night, while the two were drinking beer, and he cut her over the eye with a pocket knife, inflicting a painful wound. He was arrested by Special Finley and charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

THE "TOKIO'S" SMALL-POX.

How the Case Was Discovered-Guarding
Against a Spread.

In regard to the rumor that a case of small-pox had been discovered on the steamer Tokio, which arrived in this port last Sunday, an ALTA reporter yesterday investigated the matter. At the Mail dock it was learned that during Monday afternoon the steward of the vessel, in one of his trips through the steerage, made while all was confusion and the horde of Chinese were swarming on the wharf, ac-cidentally came upon a sick Chinese child, stowed away from sight. The discovery was made known to Dr. J. O. Kiernan of the ship, and he pronounced it a case of small-pox. Immediately the order was given to send back all the passengers in sight, and some three hundred Chinese in the pen waiting to be searched by the Customs officers were hurried into the steerage and Dr. McAllister, the Quarantine Officer, was sent for. He also pronounced it a well-developed case of the disgusting disease, and without further case of the disgusting disease, and without further delay ordered the vessel into quarantine. Accordingly about 5 o'clock that afternoon the vessel swung out from her moorings, and was soon anchored about three miles from shore in Mission Bay, having on board the officers, crew, and 450 Chinese steerage passengers. When she arrived she carried a total of 1,294 souls, but during the hours of daylight previous to the discovery of the case, all the cabin and about 300 of the steerage passengers had landed, passed the Customs officers and were soon scattered in the different hotels, and the holes of Chinatown, as the case happened to be. Besides these, 267 other steerage passengers were transferred to the steerage of the steamer Mexico, and are now on their way to Victoria.

gers were transferred to the steerage of the steamer Mexico, and are now on their way to Victoria. In explaining his position in the matter, the Quarantine Officer stated yesterday that he boarded the vessel before she was docked, and after making an inspection of the passengers and detecting no signs of sickness, he received the certificate of the Captain and surgeon of the ship, which certified that the vessel was free from disease, and left. As to how the case was so long kept concealed, it is a known fact, and has been experienced in this port before, that the Chinese on shipboard invariably conceal every case of sickness among them, and leave them without attention, they knowing that it will prevent their making a landing if discovered. A number of visits was made knowing that it will prevent their making a landing if discovered. A number of visits was made to the Tokio yesterday by McAllister. He has already taken every precaution to prevent the spread of the disease, and to-day the vessel will be thoroughly fumigated, and the imprisoned passengers and crew transferred to the hulk China. When this is done the vessel will be fumigated for a second time, and then it will be for the Board of Health, which meets to-morrow night, to say when the quarantine will be raised. Present appearences indicate that no new cases will break out. The patient is at the Pest House, to which place it was removed as soon as possible after it was discovered.

With regard to those passengers who escaped the quarantine, experienced persons are of the opinion that none of them had become inoculated with the disease, and if no new cases are discovered on the Tokio to-day it is safe to say that the danger is over.

A petition is being circulated for the pardon of Robert Peacock, now in San Quentin prison for a disgraceful felonious assault on a little girl. An attempt was made some time ago to procure evidence of his alleged innocence, and the manner in which it was done was fully exposed in the Alta at the time.

The fourteen-year-old daughter of John Higgins, a driver on one of the Telegraph-avenue cars, has disappeared in a mysterious manner, leaving it in doubt whether she has eloped or was abducted. She left some letters behind alluding in a mysterious manner to her relations with a Spanish boy living in her neighborhood.

A. C. Pratt was arrested on Saturday for violating an ordinance against sleeping in a box-car, and $66 were found on his person. This was placed in the cash drawer at the police station, and when the money came to be counted to be returned to him it was found, so it is said, that $30 were missing. The money was made up by the men who have keys of the drawer out of their own pockets. The lock was an ordinary Yale lock and it is suspected that some one had a private key which he had no right to have, but the police are very reticent about the matter The lock has been changed.

The lock has been changed.

W. W. Camron, at the request of some of the Republicans of Oakland, has again declared himself a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress, from the Third District. Mr. Camron was one of the earliest to enter as a candidate but later dropped out. The other known candidates for the same nomination are W. E. Dargie and Carroll Cook of Oakland, Henry Edgerton of Sacramento, and J. N. McKenna of Solano. Henry Vrooman of Oakland has also been talked of, but he has not said that he is a candidate. At the present writing it is hard to say which of the candidates has the best chance, but it is plain that the number of candidates from Alameda county the number of candidates from Alameda county proportionately weakens the chances of all the men from that county.
